Breaking Point Near —Smith

From Reuters-AP
LONDON (CP) — Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith hinted Friday night he would carry out his threat to seize independence from Britain following the collapse of independence talks here.

In a television interview after the talks ended only in "agreement to disagree" Smith was asked if his all-white government's next step would be a unilateral declaration of independence. He replied:

"This is the most logical step before us, we believe, if we are to retain the Rhodesia we know today, and the western civilization we have established."

COCKINESS
An African Commonwealth premier immediately called on Britain to suspend the constitution of Rhodesia and detain Smith.

In Freetown, Sir Albert Margai, premier of Sierra Leone, in a message to British Prime Minister Wilson and all African Commonwealth leaders called for this "in view of the recalcitrant attitude and the obvious cockiness of Mr. Ian Smith over present negotiations."

BREAKDOWN
In Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, news of the London breakdown was received calmly. People accepted the outcome as inevitable.

In Moscow, the Russian news agency Tass said the "South Rhodesian racists... mean to live up to their threats."

SET ABLAZE
In London, Wilson was understood to have told Smith a unilateral seizure of independence would mean that the Rhodesian government was responsible for setting Africa ablaze.

You Can Tell by Red Berets

Specialized Crew Garbologists All

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—The McCauley Rubbish Removal Co. says it would continue its newspaper campaign to have its men referred to as "your friendly garbologists." Raymond Esposito, a partner in the firm, said that in the current era of specialization it is only natural his men be known by the term. "They are certified garbologists," he said.

He said that when his nine drivers make their collections, they wear red berets. "Otherwise, they wouldn't stand out as much," he said.

One-Two Pays $721 For Sandown Record

Biggest payoff in the 11-year history of Sandown Park came up in the fourth race Friday when Lady Flag, a 35-to-1 longshot who hadn't won a race in at least two years, came through the stretch to catch Star Pal, a three-year-old who failed to win in five previous starts.

Nearly 2,000 fans knew it was going to be a big one for the few who had correctly picked the order of the first two finishers but they didn't anticipate the $721.30 which was flashed on the board.

Mutual officials said that only nine tickets had been sold on the winning 7-2 combination. (See Page 12.)

Rioters Ignore Sukarno Request

JAKARTA (AP)—Young demonstrators burned the headquarters of the Indonesian Communist party Friday and demanded its dissolution. The army blames the party for a leftist uprising last week.

President Sukarno's efforts to protect the Communists and his declaration that "we should not take revenge" went unheeded in the rampage by several thousand youths, largely Moslem.

MOTOR PARADE
"Long live America!" they cried in a motor parade past the U.S. embassy, the scene in recent months of denunciation of things American by Communist-led Indonesian mobs.

Troops who crushed the coup overrode all approach streets and made no effort to interfere as the youths set fire to the Communist's one-storey building and reduced it to ashes.

KEY AIDES
The demonstrators shouted for the death of the Communist party's first secretary, D. N. Aidit, who has two key aides—Mohammed Lukman and a labor leader named Njoto—in Sukarno's inner cabinet.

Aidit is reported to have fled after collapse of the coup, engineered by an officer of Sukarno's presidential guard, Lt.-Col. Untung.

PUBLIC RALLY
Similar calls were reported by Radio Jakarta to have been made at a public rally in a Jakarta stadium.

The radio station, run now by the army, said 500,000 persons representing 44 political and religious organizations demanded abolition of the Communist party.

Korean Unit Arrives

SAIGON (UPI)—South Korea's Second Marine "Blue Dragon" Brigade—the first major element of a 15,000-man Korean division en route here arrived today to join the fight against the Viet Cong. Brig. Gen. Bong Chul Lee stepped smartly down the gangplank of the U.S. transport ship, followed by 2,800 combat-ready Marines. He was greeted by Lt. Gen. L. G. Throckmorton, deputy to Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, head of U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

Tank Stoops to Skulk

Experimental T-95 tank crept up and down for observers at Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds. New tank can vary clearance from five to 24 inches. It is seen in action here.—(AP)

350,000 Cubans 'Want Exile'

Hail of Castro Gunfire Sends 37 Off to U.S.

MIAMI (UPI)—Thirty-seven Cubans wary of Fidel Castro's new "Open Door" policy fled the island on their own Friday under a hail of gunfire.

One man was shot in the leg.

U.S. officials speculated the Cuban militiamen opened fire through a misunderstanding, since the Castro regime has been bragging about aiding defectors, not shooting at them. The new boatload of refugees landed on Cay Sal in the Florida Straits while the U.S. government was urging the excited South Florida exile colony not to try a Dunkirk-like operation to rescue loved ones from Cuba. Estimates indicate as many as 350,000 Cubans may want out.

They set sail Friday night, and were spotted by militiamen on the beach, who opened fire with automatic weapons.

The boat continued without returning the fire, and arrived early today at the island of Cay Sal.

An unconfirmed report from a Cuban government radio said eight other small boats were preparing to start for Florida.

Each new development heightened the excitement in South Florida's exile colony of 90,000 persons.

Swedes Report Nuclear Blast

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The Swedish Seismological Institution of Uppsala Friday registered what the institute termed "by all likelihood an underground nuclear explosion" in the Semi-Palatinsk area of Soviet Siberia. Dr. Arneus Baath, said "all indications are that the registration emanated from an underground nuclear explosion."

'Mafia Reaches Into Ottawa'

Liberal Peek Offer 'Transparent Plot'

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

SELKIRK, Man.—Tory chief John Diefenbaker has accused the government of a transparent plot to seal his lips by inviting him to look into the files of the Seftind brothers, the bankruptcy kingpins.

In the province where the Diefenbaker magic has never dimmed, he set out these terms for accepting Justice Minister Cardin's invitation to peek at the Seftind files:

He must be allowed to examine all the files, particularly information given to Ottawa by the Quebec department of justice.

He must be allowed to speak out on anything he saw in the files.

HAPPY TO LOOK
If these terms were met, Mr. Diefenbaker said, he would be happy to look at the documents when he is in Ottawa in a few weeks time.

"But I want the right to see," he declared. "I want none acceptance of his terms as he pointed out that he is a privy councillor and under oath, is forbidden to discuss what he sees in official documents.

The same would apply to former Tory justice ministers who were also invited to look at the files.

Panicky Crooks Eyed

QUEBEC (CP)—Justice Minister Claude Wagner said Friday measures have been taken to prevent the departure from Canada of several panicky leaders of the Montreal underworld, who want to get out of the country in a hurry.

Crime Conference

Murder-Arson Chief Topics

OTTAWA (UPI)—The fraudulent bankruptcy and arson racket that has resulted in at least 12 murders in Quebec will be a main topic at the Federal-Provincial Conference on crime here next December.

Justice Minister Cardin said Friday he will meet Dec. 23 with the attorneys-general of the 10 provinces to try and find means of battling organized crime in Canada and preventing the infiltration of international criminals from the United States.

'Nothing to Hide' Protests Cardin

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Federal Government is willing to open to the public only part of its file on the Seftind bankruptcy, Justice Minister Cardin said Friday.

"But we have nothing to hide," said Mr. Cardin as he commented to UPI on reports that Prime Minister Pearson is willing to make public reports on the Seftind case that include involvement of two cabinet ministers and their furniture purchases.

However, there are departmental documents and files which should not and would not be disclosed to the general public, Mr. Cardin said in an interview.

Mr. Cardin repeated his challenge to opposition leader John Diefenbaker to look at his files himself or designate a former justice minister to handle the chore.

He would be given complete access to all information including departmental files, said Mr. Cardin. And he wouldn't find the names of any members of parliament "except the ones we already know of."

Secretary of State Maurice Lamontagne and Postmaster General Rene Tremblay are listed in the files in connection with their long-term credit purchases of furniture from the bankrupt Seftind company.

Both cabinet ministers denied any wrongdoing in their furniture purchases.

He made the statement at a press conference, called to report on progress by the justice department in investigating the operation of an arson and fraudulent bankruptcy ring.

So far, he said, police have discovered at least seven per-

The justice minister declined to say whether the heads of organized crime in the province are Quebecers or United States citizens.

LATEST VICTIM
Meanwhile, a justice department spokesman said there are indications that Paul Chandonnet, a Sherbrooke businessman whose body was found in the Sherbrooke region Thursday, was the latest victim in the underworld purge of potential witnesses.

Chandonnet, 38, was reported missing Sept. 25 and believed killed two days later. His body, covered in quicklime, was found in a wooded area near the village of Ham-Sud, 30 miles northeast of Sherbrooke.

LBJ Fine After Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson underwent a 2½-hour operation Friday and his family doctor said it went beautifully.

Three hours after the surgery was over, an aide pronounced Johnson ready to make any presidential decision that might be necessary.

Less than five hours after surgery, Johnson was helped to his feet in his hospital room and took a few steps.

COMPLETE SUCCESS

"The operation was a complete success," said White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers, after surgeons removed Johnson's gall bladder and a stone that had formed in his kidney.

"He is doing well—although of course as any person will tell you whose gall bladder has been removed, he is experiencing mild discomfort," Moyers said.

ASKING QUESTIONS

Less than two hours after he was wheeled, under general anesthesia, from the Bethesda Naval Hospital operating room, Johnson was reported asking questions about the business of the U.S. presidency.

FT. CARSON, Colo. — Lt. Robert W. Custer extended his hand to Pvt. Red Thunder, 18, of Poplar, Mont., and said, "I'm willing to let bygones be bygones if you are."

Custer, acting caretaker of Turkey Creek Ranch, part of 80,000 acres being acquired by Ft. Carson, is the great-great-grandnephew of Gen. George Custer.

Thunder is the great-grandson of Sioux Indian chief Gail, one of the leaders in the Sioux victory over General Custer in the battle of the Little Big Horn in 1876.

INDIO, Calif. — Singer Dinah Shore was awarded a final divorce decree from Maurice Smith, who last week accused her of committing adultery with four "John Does" in a counter divorce suit.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Mrs. Fanny Hill, 34, was given a two-month jail sentence on a morals charge yesterday in this city which has banned Fanny Hill, a novel chronicling the affairs of a lady of pleasure in 18th century England.

LONDON — Police sergeant Henry Francis Burgess, the last Briton to be sentenced to death for capital murder, was retrieved by Home Secretary Sir Frank Soskice.

HASSOCKS, England — Helen Watts, 84, one of the leaders of the British suffragettes who fought for votes for women in the early years of the century, is selling her home here and moving to Canada.

EDMONTON — Harry Hubach, 36, sentenced to be hanged in December for the slaying of an aircraft plant security guard Trenton Richardson, 48, is appealing his conviction.

RIO DE JANEIRO — Carlos Lacerda, the dynamic right winger who cleaned up much of Rio's slums, has resigned as the National Democratic Union party's candidate in the 1966 Brazilian presidential elections.

FEWER WILL WORK MORE. The Canadian lumber industry expects to double its output by 1990, employing 35,000 men instead of today's work-force of 50,000.

ST. JOHN'S, Que. — Sessions Judge Honorius Michaud has taken under advisement motion to quash a six-count perjury charge against St. John's chiropractor Roch Deslauriers, 31, and said he will issue a ruling Nov. 5. Deslauriers gave evidence at preliminary hearing nine months ago for Yvon Dupuis.

LONDON — Queen Elizabeth sent a "get well message" to President Johnson for removal of his gall bladder and a kidney stone. "I send my warm personal wishes for a rapid and complete recovery."

AMMAN — Britain's Princess Alexandra and her husband, Angus Ogilvy, have left Amman by air for Malta, after a three-day visit to Jordan at the invitation of King Hussein.

MUNICH — Princess Soraya, the ex-wife of the Shah of Iran, obtained a West German driver's licence after years of driving here without.

Water and Growth

GOVERNOR EVANS of the State of Washington has declared that before there is any further discussion of diverting water to the southwestern states, the future as well as the present needs of the northwestern area must be determined. The latter may have a surplus today, he acknowledges, but what of time to come?

This is a good point, and one of interest in Canada as applying equally to the discussion that has been proceeding in the United States, despite Canadian coolness which yet does not amount to a firmly stated policy, on the subject of channeling the bountiful water resources of northwestern Canada east and south to supply much of the continent.

This discussion, true, takes cognizance of the fact that Canada's needs must first be met. A recent white paper on U.S.-Canadian relations by eleven Republican congressmen for instance said that "the government of Canada should not, and the government of the United States should not ask it to, consider making available to the United States water supplies which it needs for its own purposes." But based on "the estimates of abundance" the congressmen's opinion was that there would be no serious obstacle to a continental water plan to meet the needs of both nations.

The question that arises here is: What will be Canada's future needs?

The former chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, dealt in a far-seeing way with this question in an address a few days ago to the Canadian Club of Montreal.

Water, he said, is the fundamental resource in any civilization.

"There is never too much water; the amount determines the upper limit of development. In Canada, the upper limit of development is high in great part because of our water resources. This fact should be an inducement for us to speed up our progress rather than to relinquish the fundamental asset that makes it possible."

"It is therefore nonsense to talk about a surplus, and it is dangerous folly even to contemplate selling water. All of our water can be translated into growth somewhere. Let it take place here in Canada."

In short, the alternatives Gen. McNaughton saw were the concentration of growth and power in the United States, made possible by feeding Canadian water to the south, or the attraction of people and industry to the resource, and thus "continental development" in a truer meaning of those words, including the opening up of Canada's north.

The general's concern was largely directed to the possibility of studies of water diversion schemes leading on to this most valuable commodity being irrevocably committed to export in large quantities; to precedents being established in small states.

In his experience, he said, when money was spent on such studies, "vested interests appear, and often there is no stopping them. Programs that are shaped by special interest groups can be kept under control only by a clear overall policy, and our trouble today in Canada stems from the fact that although we have been subjected to some pious sentiments with respect to water, we still find ourselves in a policy vacuum."

Apparently the same thought has occurred to Governor Evans with regard to the resources of the U.S. Northwest. He would put a brake on any discussions until his part of the country knows it, in the long run, it has anything to spare for export.

And if there is any doubt about the wisdom of this course, it is worth noting that as Gen. McNaughton says, the value of the commodity rises day by day.

Not an Issue?

THE QUESTION of high ethical standards in governance seems to be getting short shrift as an issue in the current election campaign. One would hope that voters considered this to be a matter of no little concern where public trust was involved.

Speaking in Timmins, Ontario, this week, Prime Minister Pearson is quoted as saying: "They can call me corrupt, they can call me stupid . . . but to suggest that I would do anything to divide this country hurts me, it cuts me to the quick."

This is rather surprising; most individuals would surely prefer to be called almost anything rather than corrupt.

According to a CP report from Ottawa the NDP leader, Mr. Douglas, takes something of the same line. He is quoted as telling his audiences: "Let the others spend their time on scandals; we of the New Democratic Party are more worried about the future of this country than the things of the past."

This is equally surprising, for Mr. Douglas is noted for frequently adopting a virtuous tone in his public utterances. It is not so long ago either, at the height of the disclosures that brought about the Dorion inquiry, that he demanded the Liberal government "clean house" or else it would forfeit NDP support in the last Parliament.

It is a strange reversal of attitude. The future of this country won't rest on a very secure foundation if its progress is not predicated on integrity and high moral purpose in government circles at all levels.

The Conservative chief, Mr. Diefenbaker, appears to be the only national leader who takes the stand that probity in governance is one of the cardinal issues in the present election.

As it most certainly should be.

Navy's Concern

EVIDENCE WHICH he claims supports his charges of corruption in HMC Dockyard is reported to have been stolen from the home of Mr. Clarence Billett, the author of the accusations.

It is an easy step in inference that some interested party was responsible. But this might be an unwarranted conclusion.

On instructions from Ottawa, Commodore R. M. Battles, RCN, chief of the navy's dockyard administration which employs upwards of 2,000 civilian workers, has undertaken an inquiry, a direct result of Mr. Billett's repeated assertion of bribery and inefficiency in operations.

Some will feel that an "outside" agency might have been better employed in the investigation. But the navy, jealous of its integrity, wants to keep its own house in order.

Commodore of dockyard can be trusted to pursue the matter with thoroughness and dispatch, even to examination of the strict security arrangements there.

The public presumably will be fully informed of the results.

Envious Eyes on Canada's Water Resources

Thirsty Neighbors Warn of Plans to Come

THE recent white paper issued by 11 Republican congressmen on Canadian-U.S. relations has in it a number of valuable aids to the Canadian point of view.

There are several things that Canadians can commend as very nice ideas: the publication of separate Canadian reports on U.S. subsidies; more exchanges of one kind and another; American subsidiary executives involved in Canadian community life; open import privileges for Canadian oil; a Canadian port in the Alaskan panhandle in return for the paving of a Canadian section of the Alaska highway.

On page 17 of the text of the white paper the congressmen come to the point: Canadian water resources. There should be a plan to distribute Canadian water to seven Canadian provinces, 38 states and one Mexican state. At least two such plans already exist. They have not been received in Canada with any great enthusiasm.

The representatives who issued the paper almost all come from states critically short of water. This has not made them insensitive to Canada's present and future needs. They made it clear that they do not propose and would not have any American administration attempt to reach an agreement that granted to the U.S. water required for Canada's foreseeable needs.

Quite apart from the entire proper debate that must arise over whether there can be, legally or morally any reality in the American term "continental water resources," there is the more immediate business of Canada's "foreseeable needs."

It has been assumed many times in Canada's history that her permanent destiny is that of a large land mass lightly populated along the international line, a hewer of primary materials capable at most of supporting a population of 25 millions.

To the list of raw materials which began with fur and has been considerably extended, we must now add water: Canada as a hewer of rocks and a piper of water.

The Americans need water urgently and may soon need it desperately. When that point comes, they will be entitled to raise the uncomfortable question of the moral obligation of a small nation with too much water withholding it, dog at the well, from over 200,000,000 people whose need is very great.

The Toronto Globe and Mail suggests that next time the U.S. raises the matter of "continental water resources" they may not be quite so polite, and desperate friends are always capable of swinging and may sometimes be obliged to swing formidable weapons at a vulnerable friend and neighbor.

The U.S. expects to need more than 1,000,000,000 gallons of water a day by the year 2000. The "water resources for the continent," the Republican white paper says, "lie largely in Canada and lie largely untapped. And if the estimates of abundance are accurate . . . the authors of the paper see no difficulty in arriving at an equitable distribution of the water in Canada."

But Canada's foreseeable needs are far greater than the Americans may be willing to acknowledge and the "estimates of abundance" may be very misleading. Nelson Mundy, director of planning for the Manitoba water control and conservation branch, said some time ago that present water supplies will not be sufficient to meet Manitoba's needs for

By SHAWN HERRON

1990. Twenty-five years is a mere day or two in the industrial development of a modern state.

Before the year 2000, Canada's water needs will have reached critical dimensions. Alberta's petro-chemical industry, potash developments in Saskatchewan (a potash plant using a solution method of extraction can use as much water in one day as a city of 70,000 people), new industries in Manitoba and new pulp operations in the west are stretching and will strain still further the water resources at present available.

The barren-mindedness of the provinces makes any joint program for conservation and distribution seem difficult in the near future. Prairie governments admit however that long range planning is necessary.

Something more than a regional interest in water for their thirsty constituencies prompted the Republican authors of this white paper to publish it at this time. The Republican party will no doubt one day return to power. It is busy now marking out major areas of concern. A Republican administration facing a water crisis swings no less heavily than a Democratic administration and it is part of the essence of self-preservation for Canadians to be armed in time.

Our Readers' Views

To be considered for publication in this column, letters must be on subjects of general interest and must be signed with pen-name, must be accompanied by writer's name and address. Preference will be given to those that are brief.

been under shackles of subordination tied to the French Canadian people is absolutely untrue. Following the battle of the plains of Abraham the French Canadians were given their freedom to do as they saw fit, to live, to work, to worship, to follow their own way of life, religion and language as their work entitled them to do. The writer has been in Canada over 50 years and is as loyal to this great country as anyone in it, but none. Also have wonderful friends among the French Canadian people. They boast of their French ancestry, keeping it before them all the time, but the British are told, to forget their ancestry, just say Canadian. Why? It is strange that that privilege is only for the French Canadian, not the British Canadian.

The letter in question concludes with the following sentence: "The youth of both linguistic communities must work together for a united Canada." True, but not an entirely one-sided Canada; that is not unity. There are a great number of French Canadians as well as others of different nationality who are happy to enjoy the freedom which exists under the Union Jack, which embraces all.

ANOTHER VIEWPOINT.

"What's a Million?"

As advised by a leaflet sent out by B.C. Medical Plan I presented my cheque for coverage. I was quickly asked for 10 cents. What for? I inquired. "Bank service" was the reply. Sorry I'm not paying and withdrew my cheque.

After some inquiries I was advised to go and pay it to the B.C. offices. It is about time the people who pay the piper (the taxpayer) do some thinking on this high financing, so-called Social Credit.

Ten cents, why worry? What about the pensioner, the unemployed and the fixed income citizens?"

With the thousands of people taking out coverage, and the thousands who may not need to use this scheme, it looks as good as the 5 per cent tax imposed on the poor and self-respecting citizen who tries to work for an honest living. Question: Does the bank get all the proceeds? If not, who does? This high financing smacks of the late Mr. C. D. Howe's "What's a Million?"

Costly Lesson

China's Minions Stumbled

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE score for turmoil, Chinese style, is two down and one badly shaken up. The losers are not, it so happens, the targets of Peking's hatred but players in whom the Chinese have invested great energy and scarce resources.

What has happened in Algeria, the United Arab Republic and now in Indonesia should be immensely instructive to dictator-adventurers elsewhere in Africa and Asia. The lesson is one of neglect and decay at home while pursuing dreams of grandeur abroad. The end result is hunger, chaos and finally overthrow.

Ben Bella, a revolutionary leader of undoubted brilliance, was tossed out in Algiers on June 19. Whether he is dead or still in prison no one seems to know outside the clique around Houari Boumedienne that took power after throwing out Ben Bella.

In once rich Algeria, American surplus food is still keeping an estimated 30 per cent of the population alive. Ben Bella spent up to $25 million on an elaborate complex of hotels and de luxe dwellings in preparation for the Asian-African Conference—Bandung II—to have been held last July. Despite frantic efforts by Red China the revolt forced a postponement to Nov. 5. Whether it will be held then is doubtful with the India-Pakistan conflict casting a long shadow over all of Asia.

Striving to be the leader of the African bloc and the catalyst of the non-aligned powers, Ben Bella poured money and guns into The Congo to support the rebels there. This was while the economy of his own country was running down with the stubborn problems of the population explosion and a faltering production refusing to yield to the prescription of his particular brand of socialism.

The case of Gamal Abdul Nasser in the United Arab Republic is marginal. He has shown great skill in balancing off the West and the Communist bloc and seeming to get the best out of both worlds. But all the time he was pursuing far-flung adventures taking money and trained manpower desperately needed in a pitifully poor country.

At the height of the war in Yemen, 50,000 Egyptian troops were fighting to put the Nasser stamp on this desolate desert country. Despite the recent peace settlement with Saudi Arabia the Egyptian force in Yemen is still sizeable. Nasser, too, dabbled with guns and money in the bloody mess of The Congo.

The plot of the right wing Moslem brotherhood came closer than the outside world knew to overthrowing Nasser. It attracted many elements convinced that no other way out was possible. Nasser was so alarmed for his life that when he went to the Arab summit meeting in Casablanca he was guarded by 100 Egyptian security police.

As for Sukarno in Indonesia, his folly has been so well advertised that his current predicament and the tragic plight of his country seemed all along to be inevitable. Indonesia is potentially a rich country. While the central island of Java is densely over-populated the outlying islands are comparatively empty. Resettlement was an answer. But that would have taken discipline, administrative skill, capital investment. As Sukarno flew around the world making wilder and wilder statements virtually nothing was done to solve problems at home.

At this writing Sukarno's fate is uncertain as is that of his country. But it appears likely that his embrace of Peking has aroused to action the forces long aware of the drift toward economic breakdown and increasing disorder. Red China has been trying to stave off the evil day with shipments of rice to relieve famine conditions in some areas. Civil war, if it comes to that, is a cruel fate for a people who have endured much since the colonial rule of the Dutch was brought to an end after the Second World War.

The evils of colonialism have been the propaganda fare of the dictator-adventurers in the new nations of Africa and Asia. But as events are proving the Sukarnos and the Ben Bellas cannot live forever by invoking the cruelties and injustices of the past.

The lesson is written large for those able to read the fate of China's proteges. The turmoil presided by Lin Piao, China's vice-premier and minister of national defence, as a way of bringing down the United States, is a form of anarchy in the very areas that Peking seeks to master.

Petite Thief Jailed

A petite Nanaimo girl is spending what was to have been her wedding day in jail.

Eighteen-year-old Donna Lee Eror was to have married Gary Munro, 21, today.

ONE DAY
Instead she will serve the one day sentence imposed upon her by Magistrate William Ostler in central court Friday.

Miss Eror pleaded guilty to taking goods worth $71.23 from Woolco and $28.20 from Woodward's on Oct. 2.

PLANS OFF

Munro has pleaded not guilty to theft under $50.

Magistrate Ostler was told that Miss Eror's wedding plans had "gone by the board."

He told her: "I quite suspect that you are too young and immature for marriage."

ON BOND

"I am certainly surprised that you would steal as a prelude to your marriage."

On the other count, Miss Eror was placed on two years' probation and a $500 bond.

A third Nanaimo youth, Spencer Malthouse, pleaded guilty to theft under $50 and was fined $100 and placed on six months' good behavior.

INFLUENCE

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said: "The disturbing thing about this is that it has all the earmarks of a plan. This young lady exercised a frightening amount of influence on her friends."

Magistrate Ostler: "I am not at all convinced that these acts were as impulsive as everyone would like me to believe."

WARNING

A 17-year-old girl appeared in juvenile court on similar charges.

Ronald Letcher received a stern warning and a jail sentence from Magistrate Ostler.

He pleaded guilty to two charges of theft under $50 and one of possession under $50.

Magistrate Ostler described Letcher's pre-sentence report as "very unfavorable."

COMMON SENSE

"It certainly indicates that if you don't wake up and use some common sense soon, you'll spend most of your life in jail," he said.

He sentenced Letcher to one year in the young offenders' unit, to be followed by an indefinite period not to exceed one year on each of the three charges. The sentences will be concurrent.

Michael Mathews had genuine remorse for his actions, prosecutor Birkett told the magistrate.

Mathews, 17, of 1287 Park Terrace, had pleaded guilty to assaulting Constable Stuart Rhodes at the Esquimalt Sports Arena on Oct. 2.

Magistrate Ostler told Mathews: "You were disrespectful, threatening and insolent. Obviously you were intoxicated and thought you were a big enough man to teach the officer something about his work."

He was told to apologize to the officer and placed on a two-year bond of $500 to keep the peace.

Helene Henderson, 1068 Monterey, was impaired when her car hit a telephone pole on Fort Street on July 6, Magistrate Ostler found.

"It is perfectly apparent the defendant failed to allow for the narrowing of Fort Street," he said.

Mrs. Henderson was remanded until Oct. 20 for a pre-sentence report.

Where was Dale Ashton on March 5, 1964?

Ashton said he was working in Alberni at the time and didn't return to Victoria until June.

But city police have charged him with breaking into Frank L. Rott Ltd., 1812 Cook, on March 5, 1964.

At an earlier hearing, the court was shown a fingerprint found on the bottom of the company's cash box, which had 10 points of resemblance to Ashton's print.

Ashton, 955 Goldstream, claimed he touched the box when in the office in February, 1964, while inquiring about hiring a typewriter.

In rebuttal evidence, two city policemen said they saw Ashton in Victoria on March 10, last year.

Ashton was remanded to Oct. 18.

It cost Gerald Beune one month in jail for his role in a prison fight on July 23.

Magistrate Ostler agreed that Beune played only a minor role, but should have kept out of it.

John Lawrence Smith was sentenced to four months at an earlier hearing.

Afine Winkworth, 250 Douglas, was fined $75 for stealing a key case and a purse, valued at $11.90, from Woodward's Tuesday.

Postal Prober Coming

Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of the Quebec Superior Court, at present crossing Canada to hear of working conditions in the Post Office, is expected to hold conferences in Victoria Oct. 18 and 19.

Union and department officials will confer behind closed doors with the judge, who was appointed as a sequel to this summer's massive walkout by dissatisfied postal workers.

Judge Montpetit's terms of reference call for inquiries in the Post Office department, "concerning employee grievances relating to work rules, codes of discipline and other conditions of employment, exclusive of salaries . . . and to recommend as soon as possible such changes in existing practices as may be in the public interest."

His final report will go to the postmaster-general.

High School Evacuated In Race Riot

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police Friday evacuated Austin High School on Chicago's northwest side when bottle-throwing fights spread through the building.

Police said some of the fights were between white and Negro students. However, other brawls broke out between Negro bands and still more between mixed groups of white and Negro teenagers.

At least two students were taken to hospital with injuries. One, a white boy, said he was attacked by 30 to 35 Negroes outside the school and was hit in the face with a chain. A girl said she was hit by a chair in the school cafeteria.

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of U.S. paratroopers invaded a Viet Cong jungle stronghold Friday and used tear gas against the guerrillas, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

It was the first authorized use of non-lethal gas since last January. When news of that operation leaked out in March it caused such a world furor that use of tear gas was discontinued.

PLANES STRIKE

In the air war, Guam-based U.S. B-52 jet bombers struck twice at the Viet Cong stronghold, 30 miles north of Saigon in D Zone, before the U.S. ground drive began.

Elsewhere U.S. jet planes pounded targets in North Viet Nam around the clock while other U.S. and South Vietnamese planes hit Viet Cong installations in South Viet Nam, the spokesman said.

USED GAS ONCE

At Qui Nhon, 260 miles northeast of Saigon, advance elements of a 15,000-man South Korean combat division began landing.

The paratroopers, some of them equipped with tear gas grenade canisters, used the non-lethal gas at least once Friday, the spokesman said. They were joined by Australian soldiers.

CONTACT MADE

There were no details on the gas attack, part of major operation launched by elements of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade against an area roughly four miles wide and seven miles long that guerrillas have ruled for years.

A U.S. spokesman said the Americans made a significant contact with the enemy and a number of fights with the Viet Cong were reported throughout the day.

U.S. casualties over-all were described as light. A personnel carrier hit a Viet Cong mine and overturned. There were no reports of Viet Cong casualties.

WHAT HEATING SYSTEM IS BEST FOR YOUR HOME ?

Whether you use coal, oil, gas or electricity, some heating systems give you and your family hot heads and cold feet while burning up your pocket book. There is one heating system though that protects your health and comfort while curtailing your heating expenses. It is called Hydronic heating gives a uniform wall-to-wall, floor-to-ceiling heat, maintaining just the right temperature and humidity for true comfort and good health.

Since it is completely sealed, the hydronic system is cleaner, eliminating dust and dirt, and minimizing housework. In addition, a Hydronic system is amazingly quiet.

Hydronic finger-slim piping can be concealed in baseboard panels, or along walls without interfering with placement of furniture, rugs or drapes.

In the hydronic home, each room can be heated separately, providing different desired temperatures in the living, working, sleeping and recreational areas of the home. This can reduce fuel bills by as much as 25 per cent.

"HYDRONICS" is a modern hot water heating system which is the best you can buy. Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors, who are experts on all types of heating systems, are almost unanimous in recommending hydronics. This is why:

A hydronics system is lower cost in the long run for it provides lifetime equipment with lower maintenance and operating costs while allowing full freedom to choose the fuel that is preferred.

A hydronic system adds to the value of a home. Resale is quicker and mortgage loans easier to obtain when your home is hydronically heated.

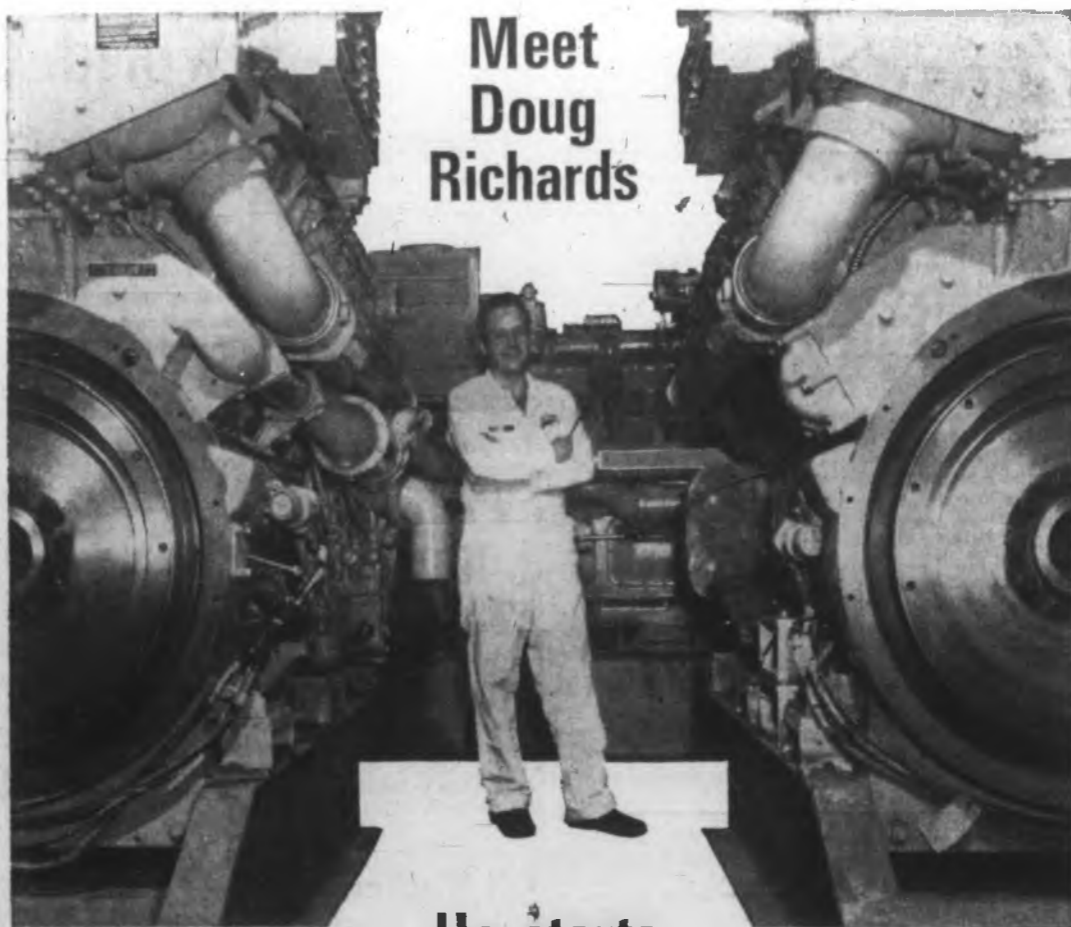

In brief, plumbing and mechanical contractors recommend hydronic heating for your home because they know from experience that it provides greater comfort, convenience and safety while curtailing your maintenance and operational costs.

Whether you are building or remodeling, consult your plumbing and mechanical contractor. His advice and services will prevent unnecessary costs while ensuring you a lifetime of comfort, convenience and safety. No one knows the answers to your heating problems as well as your plumbing and mechanical contractor.

Meet Doug Richards

He starts with finished engines

Doug Richards is foreman of the engine 'customizing' department at Finning. He takes the power of factory finished Caterpillar engines and makes it do precisely what the customer wants.

For example, the 765 h.p. giants in our picture are being modified to provide electricity for three of B.C.'s model industrial cities.

By the same token, four similar engines are being used to carry a 3000 h.p. punch to a big new tug boat's single prop.

Yet other Caterpillar engines (from 50 h.p. up) might become electric sets for microwave communications installations. Sample specifications: no load to full load instantaneously applied and no more than 1% variance in engine speed.

Or they may be tapped for duty as standby generators. Cut-in time: 7 seconds. (Doug plays it safe and makes sure they do it in four.)

There are many 'customizing' possibilities and Doug Richards is on top of every one. Not by accident. He has had 14 years job experience at Finning plus special service courses and five years night school. He will be 33 next birthday.

It is men like this who have made Finning a company that's big where it counts most . . . in thinking and capability.

White-Collar Workers Next Target

Collective bargaining rights for federal civil servants might well represent a major beachhead for the labor movement in its efforts to organize Canada's white-collar population, says John J. Carson, recently appointed head of the Civil Service Commission of Canada.

He told a meeting of the Pacific Northwest Personnel Management Association here on far attempts by the labor movement to organize white-collar workers in this country have been discouraging.

If the existing civil service staff associations achieve their objectives, said Mr. Carson, they will succeed in lining up the largest group of white-collar workers—numbering approximately 200,000—to be unionized in Canada.

As now conceived, he added, collective bargaining in the public service will probably be available to approximately 15,000 professional and scientific employees.

NEW DIMENSIONS

This would mean problems of administering large groups of professional and scientific employees in the government service will take on new dimensions which in time could extend to the outside world as well," Mr. Carson said.

He said the proposal for compulsory arbitration of disputes on such a very large scale could be a significant development in the field of labor relations.

The impact of arbitration awards covering 200,000 employees could set bargaining patterns and precedents that will affect many sectors of private industry, said Mr. Carson.

Scientific and Professional

Ottawa Competes For Personnel

The chairman of the Civil Service Commission warned businessmen Friday that Ottawa will soon be able to compete with them for the services of scientific and professional personnel.

John J. Carson told 200 members of the Pacific Northwest Personnel Managers Association that the change is a result of implementation of recommendations of the Glassco report on government organization.

In accordance with the report, the federal civil service plans to raise salary scales for senior administrative positions, he said. Promotions through merit will replace the traditional length-of-service rewards, he said. And the merit will be determined by local management, not the Civil Service Commission.

NO RED TAPE

The CSC, in fact, will bow out of the field of salary administration, he said.

"Red tape and delays will no longer be accepted as inevitable," he said.

NEW PREMIUM

"The implications for industrial personnel managers are obvious," he said. "The government's need to compete for personnel will place a premium on an already scarce commodity."

"I can see promising young personnel officers deserting industry unless it shows similar evidence of concern for their function."

John J. Carson

Police Seek Witnesses To Accident

City police are looking for witnesses to Tuesday's collision at Richardson and St. Charles.

Two men, Hubert Cumberbirch, 1677 Hollywood, and Donald Kellow, 4835 Cordova, were taken to hospital following the accident, which occurred at 1:38 p.m.

Pauling in Vancouver

World Without War Is Now 'Certainty'

VANCOUVER (CP)—"A world without war is a certainty, not a possibility," Dr. Linus Pauling, twice a Nobel Prize winner, said in an interview Thursday.

"We are making slow progress year after year in the direction of a world without war," he said.

TOO DANGEROUS

Dr. Pauling, a biochemist, said that because of the threat of a nuclear holocaust, war is becoming increasingly too dangerous to engage in.

He said one indication of lasting peace was the increasing thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations.

SIMILAR

Dr. Pauling said the Soviet Union's recent decision to implement radical economic reforms aimed at increasing productive efficiency through greater profit incentives to workers and plant managers shows how similar the Communist and free enterprise systems are becoming.

"As both systems of government become more similar, there is less and less reason for dimension,"

LAUNCHED APPEAL

Dr. Pauling was in Vancouver for a speech Thursday night at a rally concerning Viet Nam.

He said he had launched an appeal to the United States government to agree to direct peace talks in Viet Nam with the National Liberation Front (NLF), the political arm of the Communist Viet Cong in the south.

He said U.S. refusal to meet directly and negotiate with the NLF was one of the arbitrary conditions that was preventing peace negotiations.

THANKSGIVING DAY

A great day to discover how little long distance costs

How much is a voice worth?

That depends on who is speaking, and from where. On this special day, the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened; experiences recaptured. It is a time when togetherness can mean so much and, as always, at such little cost.

Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditure that have actually been reduced, over the years. And after 6 p.m. each evening (and all day Sunday), they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates for yourself in your telephone directory or dial "O" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there." For instance you can call from Vancouver to Prince George in the evening for $1.35; or from New Westminster to Calgary for $1.50; or from Victoria to Toronto for $2.35.*

It costs so little to discover how much these experiences mean—to you, and to those with whom you talk. Today, there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all its worth.

*Evening, station-to-station, first three minutes.

Indo-Pakistan War

New Charges Made

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri accused Britain of "de-molishing" India's "goodwill and friendship." It was the strongest criticism yet by India against British "partisanship" for Pakistan in the Indo-Pakistan fighting.

The charges came as Indian Pakistan radio said the Indian attack was launched against Pakistan's Sarkari Tara outpost in the Ramgarh region of occupied Indian territory taken during fighting last month.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviets admitted Friday that Luna 7 failed to achieve the "soft landing" which would have put the Russians ahead of the United States in the race to land a man on the moon. But they said "considerable" information was obtained in the moonshot.

It was the third attempt this year by the Soviets to make a soft-landing on the lunar surface—a delicate and far-reaching step toward manned moon explorations.

All-Woman Jury Finds Youths Guilty of Rape

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Twelve women jurors, crying as they returned their verdict, Thursday found four youths guilty of the rape of the teenage daughter of a policeman. A fifth defendant was acquitted.

Convicted on one count each of rape and two counts of aiding and abetting the rape of Shirley Diane O'Neal were George Ulatowski, 18, Mathew E. Melville, 20, and Ford Wood, 20.

Island Bombed In Error

HONOLULU (AP) — The tiny island of Niihau, the most westerly of the Hawaiian Islands, has been bombed in error by U.S. Navy planes. The navy said a flight of navy A-1 Skyraider divebombers swooped in on the northeast side of Niihau after dark and released several small bombs. They exploded on a remote beach. No one was injured.

Erle Forrest, 19, was convicted of aiding and abetting the rape of Ron Wood, 21, Ford's brother, was acquitted.

The defense maintained the sexual act was accomplished by consent and not by force. The three defendants convicted of rape admitted they had relations with Miss O'Neal, 18, but said she was willing.

Illustrates 'Unbridgeable Barrier'

Pope's New York Mass Criticized by Baptist

The Pope's celebration of the Mass in New York illustrated the unbridgeable barrier between the Roman Church and millions of Christians the world over, according to a pioneer Victoria Baptist.

"It is the sacrifice of the Mass which has, for centuries, separated the Roman Church from Protestants," stated Dr. J. B. Rowell, the founder and pastor emeritus of Central Baptist Church, 833 Pandora.

NEAR UNIVERSAL

"The appeal by Pope Paul for peace among the nations corresponded to an almost universal desire.

"Then why intrude this con-

Dr. Rowell

troversial doctrine (of the Mass) on the occasion of an appeal for peace?"

APPEALS

Dr. Rowell said Pope Paul appeals to the Council of Trent which affirms:

"If any shall deny that in the sacrament of the most holy Eucharist, there is contained truly, really and substantially the body and blood, together with the soul and divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ, but shall say he is only in it in sign or figure, or power, let him be anathema" (Canon I).

"Why was this superimposed on a plea for peace?" asked the minister.

General Public Invited To Alcoholics Meeting

Fair Share of Pay Asked for Appeal

The coming residential census for the United Appeal of the Community Chest of Greater Victoria, which begins Oct. 15, raises questions concerning the various agencies which benefit from it. Each day for nine days a question and answer will be printed. Here is question No. 1.

Question — What is the Fair Share concept?

Answer—Fair Share is simply the name to describe the type of giving—or the level of giving—necessary to meet the campaign objective and therefore to provide for the minimum requirements of the 23 agencies of the Community Chest of Greater Victoria.

No one can be told how much he or she should give. Only the contributor can make that decision. But to those who ask for guidance in this regard we say that their fair share is one day's pay a year if they are salaried employees, or one per cent of income for professional, executive and other individuals.

Does Repairs For All Aklavik

AKLAVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — Whether it's woodwork or the heart, broken things in this Arctic community 1,200 miles north of Edmonton get taken to Jim Sittichini.

A Loucheux Indian, he is a carpenter by trade and is the ordained Anglican minister of a parish of 200. He can counsel and preach in Loucheux, Western Eskimo or English.

The son of a minister, Jim was born 56 years ago near Fort McPherson, N.W.T.

He took the name Jim Edwards and arrived in Aklavik in 1929, when there were three Eskimo families, two Indian boys and about 20 white men.

The community now has about 400 residents, a round dozen of them Jim's sons.

A lot of other things have changed too. Local people used to live by trapping but now there is not enough to trap. So they live on welfare.

CAME AS JANITOR

Jim started church work for the Anglican mission as soon as he arrived here—as a janitor. He learned carpentry when more people arrived and houses needed building.

His determination to carry on "in the name of my dad" led to his ordination as a minister in 1943.

It was 19 years before he saw any other Anglican communities. In 1962 King's College, Halifax, sponsored him for an eight-month program of study and touring Canada.

He says the only other non-white people who have seen the rest of Canada are people sent off on government work or to hospital.

An opportunity to hear first hand what the organization Alcoholics Anonymous is all about will be provided the general public at a meeting 2 p.m. Sunday in the banquet room, Ingraham Hotel.

The speakers will be anonymous, but will be in full view of the audience.

The panel will include the original member of AA in Canada, a Victoria man.

IMPOSSIBLE

Local AAs say that judging from past experience it will be impossible for an observer looking at the audience to tell which are members of AA and which are members of the general public who are in attendance merely to hear the AA story.

The public meeting will be just one feature this weekend in the three-day 15th annual AA rally, Saturday through Monday. Up to 300 delegates with spouses are expected.

DINNER DANCE

A number of closed meetings for alcoholics only and for spouses of alcoholics will be held, with the Saturday highlight, a 7 p.m. dinner and dance at the Ingraham Hotel with Fred Usher and his entertainers.

At 1:30 p.m. on Monday convention members will meet with the Beachcombers Group, the AA association among prisoners at William Head.

"Alcohol is one of the main causes of actions leading to imprisonment," said a Victoria AA.

Catholics Ease Garb Rules

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council has opened the way for modern fashions in Roman Catholic religious garb.

There were these recommendations on apparel: Dress for men and women of religious orders should be simple, neat and appropriate; decisions on changing garb to conform with these principles should be left up to the individual community and not to the offices of the Vatican.

Hydro Official Retorts

Columbia Will Create Jobs

A spokesman for B.C. Hydro Friday answered those critics who blame the province's two-river power program for inflation in the construction industry and shortage of skilled workers.

W. Denis Kennedy, manager of the Crown utility's major resources division, said power projects in the next few years will account for only a small part of the total development, both public and private, in B.C.

In 1967, at the peak of construction on the Columbia River, the capital outlay on the project will account for an estimated 10 per cent of development then going on in the province, said Mr. Kennedy.

At the same period, the Columbia dam-building projects will employ between five and 10 per cent of the province's total labor force, he said.

Mr. Kennedy addressed the Pacific Northwest Personnel Management Association convention in the Empress Hotel. His topic was The Columbia River Treaty and People.

He told delegates that Hydro has tried to make an accurate assessment of the number of new "outside" jobs the Columbia River project will create.

FIVE TO ONE

The best estimate so far is approximately five new jobs for every man employed on the dam sites. This doesn't take into account any new industry attracted by power to be developed on the Columbia, he said.

At the peak of construction next year on the current $400,000,000 program, said Mr. Kennedy, between 3,000 and 4,000 men will be employed on the Columbia project. This will be halved by 1969-70 when the Duncan Lake and High Arrow dams are completed.

Insurance

B.C. Hiring Staff For Surveillance

Attorney-General Bonner said Friday the government is hiring new staff to keep a closer watch on operations of provincially-chartered insurance companies.

He said the move follows the emergence in recent years of the number of smaller life insurance companies operating within the province.

"We are keeping a closer surveillance of these operations and also working closely with authorities in other provinces to this end," he said. "In view of the current activity in the field, we propose to increase our surveillance staff."

ANSWERS COMPLAINT

The attorney-general was commenting on earlier statements by Kenneth R. MacGregor, president of Mutual Life of Canada, who said in Vancouver that provincial governments are failing to provide adequate supervision of provincially-chartered insurance companies.

Whale Diet Switched To Salmon

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) —

Namu the killer whale will be able to eat all the salmon he can hold without getting in trouble with the law.

The state fisheries department has issued a permit that will be good until further notice.

State law forbids food fish, including salmon, from being used for any purpose other than human consumption.

Since Namu went on a hunger strike after he was captured, the state relented and authorized a month to month "scientific permit" so salmon could be used to coax Namu to eat again.

Red Boats 'Not Fishing'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A federal fisheries official said Friday there was no evidence that Russian fishing vessels discovered Thursday in Canadian waters were fishing.

The Russian vessels—a mother ship and four or five smaller boats—were confronted by fisheries patrol boats Laurier and Howay in the mouth of the Dixon Entrance, the area between the north end of the Queen Charlotte Islands and the southeast Alaska coast.

Rod Hourston, area fisheries director, said: "Our men talked to the fleet captain, who spoke English, and learned they had taken refuge because of the weather. They didn't realize they were in our area."

On Football Flight

From CP

OTTAWA — "Some pretty rough conduct," which included passing a bottle of whisky among 35 players and grabbing a stewardess' hat has the Ottawa Rough Riders football team in trouble with the federal transport department and Air Canada.

The department has asked the airline for a full report on the incident early Tuesday aboard a DC-8 jet flying between Winnipeg and Toronto. The team was returning east after losing two games in western Canada.

Mervyn Fleming, the government's chief of air regulations, said "It appears on the surface there was no threat to the safety of the flight."

Rough Rider officials declined comment but Fleming said Air Canada had received assurances from club officials that such an incident would not happen again.

The department is withholding a decision on further action until a written report has been filed by the plane's captain and crew. The captain, at one point, came back into the passenger section to quieten the party but the players refused.

Bert Talks in Whispers But Canucks Are Listening

Daily Colonist sports writer Jim Taylor is an expert on the Vancouver Canucks. Today's topic is the Vancouver Canucks.

By JIM TAYLOR

VANCOUVER — Bert Olmstead claims he has a communications problem, but though he speaks in almost a whisper, you get the feeling Vancouver Canucks will get the message.

"I'm a rookie coach," Olmstead said. "I know what I want them to do. I think I know what should be done. But sometimes I have trouble getting it across to them."

Now, if you took that at face value, you might get the idea the Canucks could be in trouble. So maybe you'd better hear Max McNab first.

CLASS COACH
"We've been looking for a class coach," said McNab, who had the job himself last year but restricts himself to general manager this year. "We've wanted Olmstead for years, and now we've got him. Rookie or not, he'll hold his own with anybody in the Western Hockey League. And I mean anybody."

All right, then. Just what sort of a coach is Bert Olmstead, the one-time NHL fire-eater, and what kind of a team does he want? The answers came swiftly and inclusively.

SAME MOVES
"I want all the left-wingers to make the same moves, and all the right-wingers, and all the centres," he said. "Sure, they've all got their own styles, but positionally speaking, I want them all to be doing the same thing in the same situations. I want teamwork. That's the key to it all."

"Do it right, and any winger can play on any line if necessary. But I think I've got my lines about set—depending on what happens in our last exhibition games—and they'll stay that way all year if we can."

PRECISION PLAY

That, then, is part of the Olmstead coaching philosophy, a tendency to plan each game with the precision of a Brinks heist. And there is another part.

"Nobody can play his best unless he's in his best condition," he said. "Some of the guys were not when they got to camp, but they will be. I've been satisfied with our camp, but not with our game performance. There's got to be improvement."

"And there will be," he added in that whisper with a bite.

LOT TO LEARN

"They've got to learn to backcheck. For pros they don't seem to put too much heart in it. Yet when we played to a 4-4 tie with Nelson we had to tie them. They didn't tie us. We were behind."

Vancouver Over Bucks

COQUITLAM (Staff)—Vancouver Canucks lashed the defending Western Hockey League champion Portland Buckaroos, 9-3, in an exhibition game here last night.

Howie Hughes and Ron Hutchison scored two goals each for the winners and singles went to Bryan Hextall, Ray Brunel, Dave Duke, Jack Evans and Phil Maloney. Con Madigan, Gerry Goyer and Doug Messier were Portland scorers. Portland second goalie Rick Charron suffered a suspected broken ankle in a third-period pileup.

Sandown Exacto Pays $721 Biggest Price in Track History

By JIM TANG

Yes, Sam, it's possible to make money at a race track.

It does, however, take some figuring. All you have to do is to pick a horse which hasn't won a race in at least two years and 29 starts and figure it has a chance to finish first.

That done you look at the form again and then you light on a maiden three-year-old making only his sixth ever start and believe it can go far enough to dispose of an even-money favorite dropping down as low as it has ever run but not quite far enough to hold that first choice.

Having gone that far, it helps a bit when the second choice unseats her rider just after the break. It makes you quite a handicapper.

Nine people can claim it after yesterday's running of the Exacto race at Sandown Park. And don't sneer—they headed for the bank chucking, and clutching the $721.20 which made up the biggest payoff in the 11-year-old history of the Sidney track.

They had somehow figured that Lady Flag would win it and that Star Pal appeared to have it in the bag. But the youngster faltered badly in the last 100 yards and Lady Flag won going away.

Wesley Jones near the gate. Lady Flag, whose $73.10 win price was the best of the meeting, was six lengths out of things as they straightened out for the stretch run. At that point, Jeaneelz was obviously beaten but Star Pal appeared to have it in the bag. But the youngster faltered badly in the last 100 yards and Lady Flag won going away.

However, there are other, and more logical ways to get big returns on a $2 investment. Such as in the eighth race, which produced a quinella worth $100.50 when Rondool and Bossy Belle beat the rest of the field to the wire in that order.

FRONT-RUNNER
Bossy Belle is a front-running type who can often last long enough to win or just get caught near the finish. A logical choice to be in on a quinella, where the order of finish for the first two doesn't matter.

That's what she did yesterday, leading until the last few jumps before getting knocked out of win money but still three lengths in front of the third horse.

HARD TO FIGURE
Rondool is a bit hard to figure, but she figured to have a chance—a better chance than the 18-1 odds at which the betting finished. And if you really didn't like her chances, there was always the thought that Bossy Belle to the board would be $14 well wagered.

Oh, well, let's see what the chalk did.

Sandown to Stop for Tea

Orange Pekoe with Ponies

Maybe you don't quite believe that the Victoria area, as publicists used to boast before misguided successors decided to tone this approach down, a little bit of Old England but you won't get any support from Jack Diamond.

The president of the B.C. Turf and Country Club said Friday while discussing future plans for Sandown Park that he envisions the day when Vancouver Island will have the first-ever thoroughbred racing layout at which action will stop for a cup of tea.

The way Diamond sees it, there will eventually be a 15-minute recess after the fourth race each day while patrons sip their tea, which will be provided courtesy of the track management.

"We'd like to be the first track in the world to do this," Diamond said. "It's in keeping with the traditions here and I believe it will add to the atmosphere which has always made Sandown unique."

There's more in the future for Sandown than that cup of tea between the fourth and fifth race. There'll be some facelifts done within the next few years, some of it probably before the start of the 12th annual season next September.

"Sandown Park is here to stay," Diamond said when asked about any plans the Ascot Jockey Club might Last night's news—Calgary 20 at Toronto 3.

Next game: tonight—B.C. Lions at Edmonton.

TORONTO — Toronto Argonauts, who've won only one game in 11 CFL outings this season, can no longer be considered pushovers—even though they lost Friday night.

Argos were shaded, 27-26, by the Western Conference leaders, Calgary Stampede, in a rainy game in CNE Stadium.

It took three goal-line stands and a recovered fumble by Calgary to win it as the Argos, with sharp passing by quarterback Pete Liske, kept on the pressure.

Leading 13-9 at halftime, Calgary recovered the ball after kicking off to Toronto. Two plays later Lovell Coleman took a short pass from Jerry Keeling and scored a touchdown that seemed to put the game beyond reach.

FOUGHT BACK
But Argos fought back with a touchdown pass to Pat Brannon and a field goal by Jackie Parker to bring the score back to 20-19.

Then Coleman seemed to remove all doubt early in the fourth quarter with a shifty 54-yard gallop for a major score. However, Toronto still kept coming and Liske squirmed over from three yards out for another touchdown in the dying seconds.

FIELD GOAL
Calgary stopped Toronto twice inside their own five-yard line and on a third occasion, Parker kicked his field goal. A touchdown in the first sequence of plays by Dave Thelen and a safety accounted for the other Toronto points.

Calgary's other touchdown was scored by Keeling who replaced Eagle Day in the second quarter after he hurt his leg slightly. Larry Robinson kicked two field goals and the three touchdowns.

LINE INTACT
Up front, the Howie Hughes-Billy McNeill-Bruce Carmichael line has been left intact. Phil Maloney, 38 now, but tricky as ever, centres for Brunel and Dave Duke, with Hextall between Bob Kabel, converted to a right winger, and Bob McCusker.

Buddy Boone, who was injured most of last year, has had a mediocre camp and is currently on a fourth line with Larry Popeln and Ron Hutch-Hutchinson.

THREE RETIRE
Canucks lost Bev Bell, Bill Burega and Trent Beatty through retirements. On paper, their replacements make Canucks look stronger.

So Olmstead has the tools, and he says they'll be sharp. He doesn't say "or else," and he doesn't have to. Whisper or shout, he gets his points across.

Canucks will be tough. Depend on it.

Dodgers Bank on Osteen

New Park, New Hope

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Camilo Pascual will try to make it three in a row for the surging Minnesota Twins, and Claude Osteen will attempt to halt the rout of Los Angeles Dodgers today as the teams resume world series play at Dodger Stadium before 55,000 fans.

Jolted by the Twin disaster in Minnesota where both Sandy

Today's telecast starts at 1:45 p.m., over channels 2, 3 and 4. Radio broadcast over (CBI) (890 kc) at the same time, according to the network schedule.

Koufax and Don Drysdale were beaten, the Dodgers hope the return to native soil and their spacious park will help.

Warm sunshine, cutting through the smog and fog, was expected to send the thermometer to the mid-70s by game time.

After the pair of defeats at Metropolitan Stadium, the Dodgers dropped from 7½-5 favorites to 3-1 underdogs because they had been beaten in their strength-pitching.

Osteen, a talented left-hander who was acquired from Washington last winter, never lost to the Twins in his American League days, managing a 5-0 record against them.

SCORE FEW RUNS

In Los Angeles, Osteen is regarded as a tough-luck pitcher because the club seldom scores many runs behind him, but he has a 15-15 record. Actually, the club seldom scores many runs behind anybody and have scored only three in the first two series games.

Osteen, a talented left-hander who was acquired from Washington last winter, never lost to the Twins in his American League days, managing a 5-0 record against them.

9 out of 10 ballplayers wear Stanfield's long sleeve undershirts

Now, just about every ballplayer in the major leagues is wearing Stanfield's long sleeve undershirts.

Except for shortstop Miss Laverne (who categorically refuses to wear any long sleeve undershirt), ballplayers in any league prefer Stanfield's. This is because only Stanfield's has the know-how and experience to properly make wool and part-wool undershirts. Which is why these major league players had to go all the way to Truro, Nova Scotia to get undershirts that were comfortable enough to wear around the diamond. (And frankly, if you were a keyed-up, high-strung American super star who had to spend the whole day chasing balls around a stadium, you'd be pretty fussy about your comfort, too.)

Fortunately though, you don't have to be a Mantle, a Mays, or a Maury Wills to enjoy the superb and unique comfort of Stanfield's underwear. Whatever your job or favourite sport, you can always find a Stanfield's garment in just the right style, weight and fabric. Want proof? Just look at the ballplayers in this year's world series. Chances are most of them are wearing Stanfield's. Poor, poor Lois. She really doesn't know what she's missing.

Tips You Off

"I will be on an 18-day cruise through the Panama Canal to California. There are 12 passengers. Who shall I tip? How much? Will I need a formal or will a street length cocktail dress do?"

You don't tip much on a freighter. For this one, I'd give $10 each to the room steward and the table steward—or ask the captain what he tips HIS stewards. Use that for a guide. No formals on freighters. And on two I've been on, I never saw a cocktail dress either.

"Should we rent a car and drive in Japan or take trains?"

Take trains. The roads are very poor. They're improving gradually, but the trains are excellent.

"There is a famous shrine in Spain we want to visit..." That would be Santiago de Compostela. The burial place of St. James the Apostle. A pilgrimage goal for many years—Chaucer mentioned it in Canterbury Tales. There is an excellent government hotel—though I didn't stay, only had lunch. Built originally as a hospital by Queen Isabella, the one who staked Columbus.

"We would like to visit old churches in Mexico. Can we get a list?"

I don't know of a list. But most churches date back to the Conquest. Cortez built the cathedral in Cuernavaca. There are several antique churches along Avenida Hidalgo in Mexico City, in honor of battles of the Conquest. Cholula, near Puebla has 365 churches—all built on remains of Aztec temples. This was their holy city.

"You advised the American Drug Store in Tokyo for prescriptions. It is no longer in the Nikkatsu Building. It's about five blocks away."

It's hard to keep up with a changing world. The Moving Finger Writes, and having Writ, finds the drug store has moved on.

"Could you suggest a ship out of New Orleans for the Virgin Islands and a hotel? This is a honeymoon."

Alcoa goes out of New Orleans. I've heard it's good but I don't know the ships. On St. Thomas, Bluebeard's Castle is good—the island will be crowded fall and winter. For something quieter, Estate Good Hope on the island of St. Croix is on the water, fine rooms and the food was very good.

"You said the Tour d'Argent in Paris is high priced. But for a once-in-a-lifetime deal, the service, food and just surroundings was well worth it!" Agreed. This is where they pay the light bill for Notre Dame so diners can see the cathedral lit up. And each duck (the specialty) is served with name, rank and serial number. Very elegant. For the one-night in Paris, either here or Maxim's.

"When are off-season rates in Hawaii?"

Hawaii has no off-season rates and no off-season. Tourists come in all year round. Least crowded time is October-November and just after New Year's. The outer islands are still less crowded than Waikiki. But they are coming along fast. Hotels and rates by writing Hawaii Visitors Bureau, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Red Carpet Spread For Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—The welcome mat is out for Canadian tourists in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet government has started a stepped-up campaign in its official publication, Soviet Union Today, to convince Canadians they should spend their travel dollars in Russia.

An official at the Soviet embassy here said in an interview, the campaign is just beginning.

"We'd like to have many more Canadian tourists in our country, but of course it costs money to publicize."

Millions of Keys Open His Suitcase

By EDWARD NEILAN

SAIGON (CNS) — You learn a lot of surprising things in this town.

I found out that the key to my suitcase will open at least 2,500,000 other suitcases. And that there are 2,500,000 new suitcase owners every year who can open my suitcase.

Being a seasoned, if somewhat naive, traveller, I had always thought that my suitcase was mine and mine alone.

I had some personal papers I wanted to be secure. I would merely lock them in my suitcase.

I could just as well have tucked them on the door of my hotel room for all the security a suitcase provides.

After a sad experience in Saigon where someone else opened my suitcase with a key, I found out that everyone else with the same brand of suitcase could open mine. I was non-plussed.

It was like finding out the truth about Santa Claus.

I felt as distressed as when I learned two years ago that someone had been tapping my phone here.

The luggage makers admit that all the keys are the same.

In answer to my complaint, they wrote:

"...regarding the fact that the same key will fit all cases... we produce some 2,500,000 pieces of luggage a year, and it is obvious that individual keys would not be practical."

"...if someone is intent on burglarizing luggage, the fact a

Beatles Put City on Map

The advent of the Beatles and other "Mersey-beat" groups has turned England's midland city of Liverpool into a tourist attraction.

Bowing to a steadily increasing world-wide demand for information on Liverpool, the British Travel Association, official tourist office of the U.K., has produced a special color pamphlet and a poster on the city for which thousands of requests have been received from across Canada.

A spokesman for British Travel said that almost none of the Canadian letters mention the Beatles or other singing groups but they started just after the Beatles' first North American tour. Since the last Beatles' visit to Canada this year, requests have arrived at the rate of at least 100 a week.

A few years ago there were almost no enquiries about Liverpool at all. However, this summer there were special tours of the city for teen-age enthusiasts which concentrated on spots connected with popular music idols. British Travel officials feel Liverpool's new popularity, for whatever reason, is long overdue. The city can lay claim to many attractions for the overseas visitor—a world-renowned philharmonic orchestra, a magnificent new cathedral, fine restaurants and theatres and one of the world's most beautiful harbors.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson represents Liverpool in parliament. Nicholas Montserrat is a native; Cary Grant and Rex Harrison started their careers in Liverpool.

B.C. Fire Season Over

The forest fire season for most of B.C. ended at midnight Friday. The exception is that section of the province lying east of the Rocky Mountains, principally the Peace River area.

Resources Minister Ray Wiliston said the immediate effect of this action is to eliminate the need for campfire and other burning permits where the fire season has officially been declared closed. Figures for the fire season just ending, subject to later revision, show a total of 2,668 fires and firefighting costs of $2,417,000, making 1965 well above the 10-year average but still falling short of peak years.

Pearson Starts Slow

Grits' Trail Fire Barely Sputtered

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson hoped to set the paces on fire this week but he hardly struck a match.

He did however show signs of putting more fire in his election campaign from here on in.

For the first time since the election was called he acknowledged Conservative leader Diefenbaker's presence in the campaign.

ACCUSES JOHN D

In the prime time of Dauphin, Manitoba, he accused Mr. Diefenbaker of making a "false statement" on wheat sales behind the Iron Curtain.

And he began answering the honesty in government issue by calling for high moral standards in public and private life.

RADICAL MOVES

Both were radical departures from the Liberal party's original campaign strategy. It called for Mr. Pearson to refrain from attacking his opponents and ignore the scandal talk.

He also permitted Justice Minister Cardin to wade into Mr. Diefenbaker and Yukon Conservative Erik Neilson with a hard hitting press conference here.

Observers felt these were signs Mr. Pearson is having trouble mutely withstanding the bitter attacks Mr. Diefenbaker is levelling at him.

When he returned here yesterday after two days in Manitoba, even his party officials admitted his Dauphin rally had bombed.

FEW ATTEND

There were only about 1,300 there, although 14,000 invitations were sent out and some 5,000 were expected. And many of those who attended didn't pay much attention to him anyway.

They wandered around the cavernous army hall visiting with friends. They seemed completely disinterested for much of Mr. Pearson's stilted laden speech.

POOR NIGHT

The bad evening put a decided damper on what otherwise had been a cheerful day in Manitoba's grassroots.

Next week Mr. Pearson will carry his campaign to Quebec City, as well as Guelph and Ottawa in Ontario, before heading for the Maritimes.

Ten-Point Program

Farm Vote Appears Vital In Liberal's Strategy

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson ended Friday the first week of the election campaign in which he spent more time on the road than in his office.

His four-day flying trip through Northern Ontario and Manitoba was mainly in pursuit of the farm vote, especially on the Prairies where the Progressive Conservatives held 43 of the 49 seats in the last Parliament.

Virtually everything he said about the government's past record and about the Liberal party's future plans was related to the reason he has cited for calling the election—the need for a common majority.

If he spoke of achievements he usually added they would have been greater if the Liberals had had a majority in the last 2½ years.

KEYED TO INCOME

In enunciating a 10-point farm program at Winnipeg, he said a majority is required to put through its provisions over the four- or five-year life of a Parliament. The program was keyed to maintaining a farmer's average income at the level of average industrial income—about $4,200 a year now.

Thompson

Grits, Tories Acting 'Like Santa Claus'

By DAN POWERS

CALGARY (CP) — National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Friday "Canada has become one of the greatest welfare states in the world."

Accusing the Liberals and Conservatives of throwing out election promises "like Santa Claus," he told about 120 at a luncheon his party stands ready to welcome the support of "small Liberals and small Conservatives" disenchanted with "old-line party" policies.

He said the two main political parties, in attempting to co-exist "on the principles of private enterprise and the policies of a welfare state, are dying out." A national poll shows "37 per cent of Canadians do not know who to vote for," he said. He cited research by a Winnipeg newspaper that if the costs of the present promises of the Conservatives and Liberals were added up, the bill would be $2,500,000,000.

"In this list there are at least 10 items of which it is almost impossible to estimate the cost. This is the tactics of an old political approach. It's the hypocrisy of politics as it has been carried on in Canada for many years."

There were bits of sweetening aimed particularly at areas in which he was travelling. In NDP-held Timmins and Timmings riding, he announced livestock feed subsidies to aid farmers whose harvest has been ruined.

And many of the features of the Prairie farm program were similar to those being advocated by the Conservatives.

Keep Identity

'Pool Resources' Hamilton Pleads

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian equality with the United States can come in time by adopting a theme of expansionism at home and abroad, Alvin Hamilton, former Conservative minister of agriculture, said Friday.

"The day of tariffs and quotas is finished," he said. "It is time now for new concepts."

DISCUSS

Mr. Hamilton, speaking to members of the Progressive Club at McGill University, suggested that the U.S. and Canada should discuss the concept of pooling mineral resources and water between the two countries.

"We believe we should pool North American resources but at the same time maintain Canadian identity. We are tied together economically like two Siamese twins. There is no getting away from this fact."

"But I believe we should not be carried around on the back of the other twin. Rather, we should stand on our feet and have a share in deciding the direction to be taken."

The proposed compulsory medical care insurance plan of the Liberals "is more than the public purse can bear."

Canada now spends 33 per cent of its total budget on social welfare measures, he said.

Add the cost of other welfare plans to this, then Canada will be paying out "more than 50 per cent" of its earnings on social welfare measures. It has been said any government "that spends more than 25 per cent of its national earnings will fail."

The Social Credit leader earlier told a press conference if the Mafia and international crime is making inroads into Canada, "then the people should know about it" through a white paper or other investigations.

Ontario Gets Tough

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario no longer will accept federal policy decisions affecting the province without prior consultation, Premier Robarts said Friday.

In a major speech to Ontario-Quebec newspaper editors, he delivered what was perhaps his strongest statement on Ontario's place in Confederation since he became head of the provincial government four years ago.

Mr. Robarts made these points:

- Ontarians are Canadians first, who recognize that goals of Canadians in other provinces may differ from their own.
- The Ontario government believes the future of Confederation rests in the reconciliation of the varying points of view.
- Ontario, like Quebec, desires constitutional changes.
- Ontario, with one-third of Canada's population contributing to Ottawa almost 50 per cent of its direct taxes, cannot take positions that would endanger Confederation.
- Ontario recognizes the federal government must maintain control over the national economy, but seeks a greater share of national revenue.

The Ontario government no longer will accept federal policy decisions affecting the province without prior consultation.

Ontario does not believe the government of Quebec in any way represents the interests of French-speaking residents of other provinces.

Premier Robarts' 3,500-word address fulfilled a promise he made in the presence of Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec Thursday to delineate more clearly Ontario's position in Confederation.

MAIN PROBLEMS

The main challenges to Confederation, Mr. Robarts said, are a new division of revenue between the provinces and the federal government; the desire of the provinces to control their own economic development, and the question of bilingualism.

He stressed Ontario's dissatisfaction for existing tax-sharing agreements and said "difficult and searching negotiations" are in store when Ottawa sits down with the provinces in 1967 to a new arrangement.

Provincial revenues are inadequate to maintain services that must be provided by the provinces under the existing divisions of responsibilities between the federal and provincial governments.

RECOGNIZES RIGHT

Mr. Robarts said Ontario still recognizes that the federal government has the right to make equalization payments among the provinces in order to maintain national standards in all parts of Canada.

"Ontario respects the primacy of the federal government in the field of economic policy for the benefit of the whole country," he said.

"In my opinion, the combination of a bilingual country and a national economy diluted into regional economies would effectively destroy any chance of maintaining a united Canada."

He said the people of Ontario would go a long way to recognize the special status of Quebec in terms of language and culture, but they could not accept a federal system that was not based on a single national economy.

Mr. Robarts stressed the need for economic consultation. No longer would Ontario accept "any policy decisions made by the federal government that affect matters under our jurisdiction unless we have been extended the common courtesy of prior consultation."

WANTS NO CHANGE

Dealing with constitutional amendments, he said no change to the British North America Act should violate Quebec's special status.

The crux of the problem facing Canada's two main cultural groups was their inability to communicate with each other, Mr. Robarts said. He labelled communications "the key to the future of the Canadian nation."

And he delivered this message to Quebec for a starter: "We do not find ourselves in agreement with the proposition that Quebec government in any way represents the interests of French-speaking Canadians living in any other province of Canada."

Guild Strike Nears Finish

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner said Friday that negotiations for the New York Times and American Newspaper Guild have reached agreement to settle a strike which has blacked out six daily newspapers for 23 days.

A Guild official announced that a ratification meeting will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday.

John J. Gaherin, President of the Publishers Association of New York, said that resumption of publication would depend on final Guild approval of the settlement and how fast employees would return to various newspaper plants.

Trailer Rally Over Weekend

Members of the Dogwood Trailer Club will have Thanksgiving dinner together at a rally at 5555 Acres trailer park, Mill Bay.

The rally today, Sunday and Monday, will be the last one of the year.

Sunday there will be a pancake and sausage breakfast, a hymn service and the club's annual meeting.

The following day, he flies to Calgary for a public meeting at the Jubilee Auditorium. Wednesday, Oct. 13, he has public meetings in both Dauphin, Man., and Yorkton, Sask.

'Eliminate Fees'

BURNABY (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, told Simon Fraser University students Friday the federal government should be playing a bigger role in education.

Mr. Douglas told the students Ottawa should make more money available to provincial governments so that tuition fees in both academic and technical institutions of higher learning could be eliminated.

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Mike Thomas, a 25-year-old production worker who earns $92.31 a week ($4,800 a year).

Mike works in a plant where the normal retirement age is 62. If he continues to work until age 62 at the above salary, at age 65 he will receive a Canada Pension Plan retirement pension of $100 a month plus $75 a month Old Age Security. The retirement pension is the same as he would receive if he worked until age 65 because under the Plan a certain number of years of low or no earnings do not affect the amount of the pension.

Should Mike die anytime after 1967, having contributed until his death, his wife will receive a widow's pension of $62.50 a month providing she has young children to support. She will also be entitled to $25 a month for each child, which means that if she has three dependent children, her monthly income from the Plan will be $137.50. At the time of Mike's death, Mrs. Thomas will also receive a lump sum payment of $500.

Benefits for children cease when they reach 18, or 25 if they continue full-time education. If Mrs. Thomas is over 45 when her youngest child reaches age 18, she will continue to receive a widow's pension of $62.50 a month until she is 65. From then on she will get $75 a month from Old Age Security, plus a widow's pension of $60 a month—a total of $135 a month.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and in wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

What will the Plan cost you?

If you, like Mike, are employed and have earnings of $4,800 spread evenly over the year, you will pay at the rate of $1.45 a week. Your employer will pay the same amount.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

Issued by authority of the Minister of National Health and Welfare, Canada, The Honourable Judy LaMarsh.

Hopeful Sign in Seven-Week-Old Strike

Beer Talks Resume Wednesday

The lips of thousands of B.C. drinkers were moistened late Friday by the announcement that parties in the seven-week-old beer strike had agreed to resume talks next Wednesday in Vancouver.

The strike of 450 workers since Aug. 23 at breweries in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria has had far-reaching effects, putting 2,000 beer parlor waiters and barmen out of work and causing losses in the millions of dollars to hotels in the province.

Some of the beer parlors were forced to close within a week of the strike being declared.

Premier Bennett gave the news of the break in the talks deadlock in a telegram to the Vancouver and District Labor Council. Earlier Friday, the mainland body had urged the government to take over the breweries if they continued to refuse to negotiate.

The premier said in the wire that the provincial labor department "has been in constant communication with the parties and has made every possible effort to settle the brewery industry dispute."

Labor Minister Peterson, who has been under strong pressure by hotelmen and beer parlor employees to act in the brewery dispute, had earlier stated that the government could not force resumption of negotiations.

He announced Friday that the province's chief conciliation officer, Reg Clements, would lead Wednesday's meeting.

The minister refused to speculate on the outcome, saying he was pleased that the parties involved in the dispute had finally agreed to sit around a table and talk.

The brewery workers' international headquarters in Cincinnati, O., also took a hand in Friday's burst of action, wiring the strikehead breweries that their continued refusal to negotiate "may have unpredictable consequences."

"We are not threatening these breweries with a Canadian-wide strike, but it should be obvious that this kind of action on their part cannot but poison the relationship with their other employees," it said.

The B.C. brewery workers, among them Lucky Lager employees in Victoria, are seeking a 10 per cent wage increase on present average wage rates of $2.50 an hour, plus a guaranteed annual wage. The companies have dismissed the demand as out of the question.

In Victoria, settlement could not come too soon for beer parlors, which estimate they have so far lost $500,000 in sales. Several have expressed fear they might be unable to meet mortgage commitments if the strike continues much longer.

Cougar Stalked At Sooke

Hunters are chasing a cougar near Sooke this morning.

The animal was spotted late Friday night by employees of Sooke Forest Products, on a beach at Cooper's Grove.

Sooke RCMP searched for the cougar, but the hunt had to be called off for the night.

Multi-Use

Mayor Wants Arena

Mayor R. B. Wilson wants a new indoor multi-purpose arena downtown to complement the proposed centennial outdoor sports stadium at the University of Victoria.

He suggested Friday that land adjoining the Memorial Arena and Victoria Curling Club should be developed as a site for a building for indoor sports, conventions, exhibitions and concerts.

The mayor said funds from the T. S. McPherson estate could also be used, together with fire insurance money, for erection of adequate stand facilities at the Royal Athletic Park.

The mayor is happy about the suggested university stadium as a compromise site for a Greater Victoria centennial project.

NOT COMMITTED
This would be built on a 40-acre site at the Gordon Head campus.

The smaller municipalities have also favorably received the university site, but have not committed themselves.

The Victoria Sports Council has cautiously suggested that membership of a control board for the university stadium would have to protect community sports interests.

Central Saanich Complaint:

Homes Threatened By Cement Plant

By JIM BRAHAM

Owners of high-priced homes in Turgoose Point subdivision said Friday they will suffer heavy financial losses if a proposed cement plant is built next door.

Ocean Cement Ltd., proposes to build a half-million-dollar cement mixing plant and buildings supply depot — including marine facilities — on 12 acres of property next to the James Island ferry wharf just north of the East Saanich Indian Reserve.

The company has applied to Central Saanich council to rezone the property from agricultural to commercial.

The property wanted rezoned is directly across the road allowance from some of the homes in the subdivision.

EXPENSIVE HOMES
Homes in the subdivision range in price from $20,000 to upwards of $70,000.

"I stand to lose a substantial sum of money," said Cecil G. Somerville, 7877 Turgoose Terrace. "If the plant is allowed to go in, my property cannot help but drop in value."

CONFLICT
"This is the last place in the world I expected to be in conflict with a cement plant,"

A spokesman for the cement company said the plant would be professionally landscaped to conform with the area, and that no gravel-digging would be done on the property.

He explained the proposed location for the plant was part of the company's long-range planning.

FOR FUTURE
"The peninsula's population is going to grow, and we'll be operating a long way from our present depot. A company such as ours has to prepare for the future," he said.

It is possible the company would lease some of the property to a shopping centre developer, the spokesman said.

NONE NEAR
"There isn't a shopping centre between Cordova Bay and Sidney," he said.

One Turgoose resident did not agree that a shopping centre would ever be developed on the property.

"I know something about development of such centres," he said.

MOST UNDERWATER
He explained that first a circle is inscribed about a selected point on a map of the proposed area for population studies. "In our case, two-thirds of the area would be under water."

He said Turgoose Point would be one of the best residential areas on the Island within a few years.

WOULD NEVER ALLOW
"It would be inconceivable to me that any professional planner would ever allow a cement plant to go into this area," he said.

Reeve R. Gordon Lee of Central Saanich said the company's application had been referred to the Capital Region Planning Board, and council was waiting for the board's recommendations.

GENERALLY ACCEPT
He said that council did not have to accept the board's recommendations, but council's generally do.

The report is expected to be ready for the next meeting of council Oct. 19.

Beer Gift To Girl Costs $100

A Victoria man was lucky enough to have a bottle of beer earlier this month, but he gave it to a 15-year-old Sooke girl, just as RCMP showed up.

Sooke Magistrate Eugene Murphy fined James A. Gimbrecht, 788 Millside, $100 Thursday for contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Pauling Here Today

Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel prize winner, will talk on the world quest for peace at 7:30 p.m. today in the Gordon Head gymnasium of the University of Victoria.

He will be introduced by Brock Chisholm. Earlier, at 3:30 p.m., he will give a lecture on hemoglobin molecules in relation to disease and evolution, in Room 108, Elliott Building, Gordon Head campus. The public is welcome at both talks.

Crash Hurts City Girl

A 19-year-old Victoria girl was injured in a lower mainland accident which killed one, and sent four persons to hospital Friday.

Iry Anders was a passenger in a car driven by George Calow, 39. The car was struck from behind by a second car, hurled off the road near the Deas Island Thruway, and rolled three times.

Navy Home Save For Submarine

Submariners are usually pretty cheerful — but not Monday. The poor old submarine HMCS Grise will slip quietly out of harbor at 8 a.m. Thanksgiving Day while the rest of the fleet celebrates the holiday at home.

But if food is any compensation the crew will have no kick. On the menu is roast tom turkey.

At 8 a.m. Tuesday the fleet will go back to work, with HMCS Mackenzie, St. Croix, Beacon Hill, Stettler and Amalgam putting out to sea on routine manoeuvres which will include hunting for the well-fed crew of the Grise.

'Doctor-Hopping' Unproven

Addict's Narcotics Declared Lawful

Confessed drug addict Frank Cross was not unlawfully in possession of narcotics when arrested Sept. 17.

Magistrate William Ostler dismissed the charge in the central magistrate's court Friday. He found that when Cross, of 3304 Tennyson, went to Dr. Roy Sutherland for a prescription on Sept. 17, he was no longer under treatment by Dr. Richard Spicer.

NO CONTRAVENTION
Magistrate Ostler said Cross did not contravene a section of the Narcotics Act which forbids a person getting drugs from a doctor while under treatment by another.

"Dr. Spicer told the accused on Sept. 13 that he would no longer treat him," he said. "He gave him a terminating prescription."

No One's Running Nov. 8— That's to Say, Officially

As a matter of legal fact, no candidate from any political party has yet come forward to run in the Nov. 8 federal election in either Victoria or Esquimalt-Saanich federal constituencies.

Not one of the party nominees has yet made himself an official candidate by filing with the returning officer in either constituency—nor need they until sometime before 2 p.m. Oct. 25.

Esquimalt-Saanich has about 3,800 more registered voters this year than in the last federal enumeration in 1963, says that riding's returning officer, John Davies. Total this year is 47,841.

Victoria's federal constituency returning officer, Raymond Bryant, reports the enumeration total this year will be about 53,800, up only about 1,000 from last federal election, but still about 6,000 ahead of Esquimalt-Saanich.

Election Notebook By Ian Arrol

The Victoria riding includes the city, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and the Saanich Peninsula from Lansdowne Road to the Veterans' Hospital.

The president of Local 372 of the barbers' union, Len Stephenson, established a three-day work week this week.

Not for the industry, just for himself, to lay on plans for his campaign for the NDP in Esquimalt-Saanich, where he is candidate.

Today, Tuesday and Thursday were "grocery money" days, and Monday, Wednesday and Friday "party" days.

Candidate Clifford Waite of the Conservatives will be at Victoria headquarters, 1453 Douglas Street, between 10 a.m. and noon today to meet constituents.

Chairman of Mr. Waite's campaign committee is Foster Isherwood, one of the four who contested for the nomination.

Official agent is Barclay Monteith and press agent Mrs. Judy Creighton, former newspaperwoman.

The brother of J. Lloyd Brereton, Victoria NDP candidate, is an educator of princes.

Mr. Brereton's brother Harry, is the warden of Gordonstoun School, where Prince Philip and later Prince Charles received early education.

Harry Brereton worked with founder Kuri Hahn to establish the school in the late 1930s.

A Communist-Conservative-Liberal-Social Credit-Incorporated gremlin got into the typewriter to make a Colonist Thursday report state NDP leader Tommy Douglas would be in Victoria Oct. 29.

The date for the meeting, at 8 p.m. in the Royal Theatre, is Thursday, Oct. 28.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

No one need say that United Empire Loyalists aren't proud, and rightfully so, of their heritage.

Although there are quite a number on Vancouver Island who claim descendancy from Canada's early settlers there hasn't been any organized group.

Actually there was such a group here years ago but somehow or somewhere it got lost.

Now, under the impetus and enthusiasm of Olive DeLor Wilson there is to be a revival of the Loyalist branch here.

Golden Wedding Day

A few days ago Tuesday to be exact, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. G. Green gave a family dinner party for them. Their only grandchildren, Adair, named after Mrs. Wilson's brother who was killed in the First World War, and Joanne Green were there to help their grandparents enjoy the party.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Wilson are strangers to Victoria although they only came back to live here when Mr. Wilson retired a few years ago.

Harold Wilson is a grandson of Thomas Harris, Victoria's first mayor. It was while he was working in the Royal Bank in Prince Rupert that he met and married Alice Carson.

Alice was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carson who came to Victoria from Rapid City, Man., when Alice was a girl.

Alfred Carson was a lawyer and practised in Victoria where Alice attended both elementary and high school. Later the family moved to Prince Rupert.

After their marriage the Wilsons moved to Vancouver where they lived most of the 50 years. Mrs. Green is their only child.

Enroute to London

The L. G. Wright home out at Cadboro Bay was a gay place last evening.

It was open house for friends to meet their son, Brian L. Wright and his bride who were married only a short time ago in Australia.

The bride and groom are only here for a few days, they leave again on Sunday by air for London. Brian has been with Air Canada at the London airport for the past five years.

Baptism at Sooke

Water from the River Jordan and family christening robes more than 100 years old will be used for the christening of Jordan Claire Lancaster this coming Thanksgiving Sunday morning. The infant is the daughter of the Rev. John and Mrs. Lancaster of Holy Trinity Vicarage at Sooke.

Administering the sacrament of Holy Baptism in Holy Trinity will be Rev. Thomas Bailey, Canon of Christ Church Cathedral, Professor of New Testament Studies and Registrar of the Anglican Theological College.

Godparents for the baby girl will be Father Duane Mills, curate of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, Mrs. Roy Hoult of Victoria and Miss Penny Stamp of Montreal. Miss Stamp will be here for the christening.

Grandparents, Mrs. T. E. Lancaster of Victoria and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Roberts of Trail will also be there.

The Same Church

Talking about christenings, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Farmer Jr., brought their three-month-old daughter, Rhoda Lynne, from Edmonton to be christened in St. Alban's last Sunday.

St. Alban's is the church in which both Rhoda's parents and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Farmer, were married.

Rev. F. W. Hayes officiated and godparents were Mr. and Mrs. J. Oliver and Miss J. Kravetz.

The baby wore a christening dress which both her father and paternal grandmother had worn when they were christened.

After there was a tea at the home of the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Russell.

The young Farmers and their baby are out at the Farmer summer cottage at Sooke until they leave shortly for the east. Mr. Farmer is with the Air Force and will be taking a post as instructor at the RCAF Electronics school in Clinton, Ont., on Oct. 25.

Dazzling Gold Invitations

Sybil Howard who has been active with the Vancouver Symphony Women's Committee since moving to the Mainland is all excited about the ball the committee is putting on at the Vancouver Hilton next Friday.

Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Pearce, Premier and Mrs. Bennett, Hon. Frank M. Ross and Mrs. Ross are among the many patrons.

The committee has been sending out dazzling gold invitations for the ball which will be on a Japanese theme and is called the Chrysanthemum Ball.

Sybil who is convener of the out of town parties, says literally thousands of chrysanthemums will be used to decorate the second floor of the hotel which will be taken over for the party.

Sybil goes on: "Larry and I spent a day in Victoria in August and were thrilled with so many changes, especially Centennial Square. I could hardly believe I was standing where the old market used to be, and above which I took my dress-making lessons from Mrs. Crocker.

"I hear Bill Erb is in Toronto and loving it. His sister, Kay Baker, is a new member of the Women's Committee so see her quite often."

Fulford Activities

FULFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Bremson, Sr., have been spending a week in Seattle, where they were guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim O'Donnell are residing in their new home at the turning by the Musgrave and Isabella Point roads. Their son from California has been visiting them.

Capt. and Mrs. C. J. House, formerly of Vancouver, are now settled in their home, "Nelly," on the Isabella Point road. Their son from California has been visiting them.

Newlyweds Make Home in Calgary

Calgary, Alta., is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lester Somerville who were recently married in Naden Chapel by Padre A. J. Mowatt.

The bride is the former Ella Susan Slagboom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Slagboom, 4210 Quadra Street, and the groom is the son of Mrs. L. Somerville, Rolling Hills, Alta., and the late Mr. Somerville.

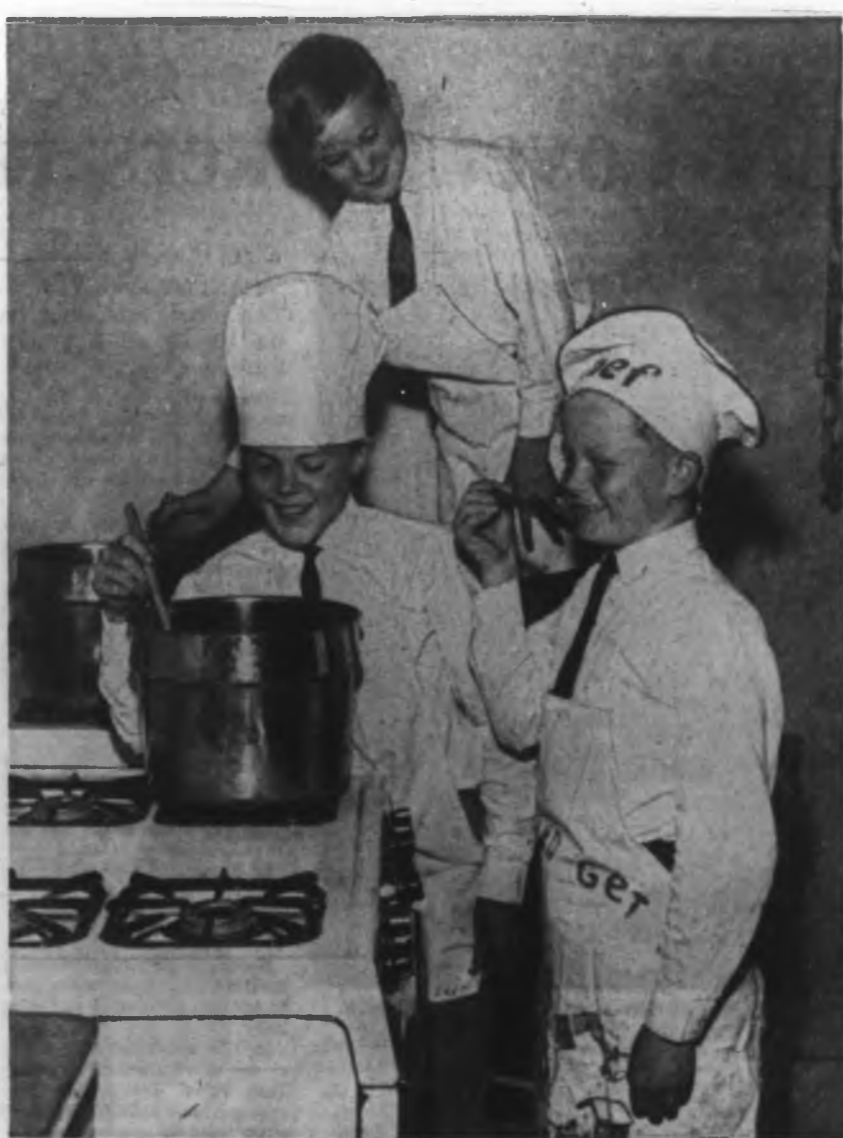

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a floor-length gown of white nylon organza over net and tulle with fitted bodice featuring scooped neckline and lily-point sleeves. She carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Miss Norma Slagboom, who was her sister's only attendant, wore a short style gown of blue printed nylon chiffon over blue tulle. She wore a matching net headpiece and carried a cascade of white feathered chrysanthemums.

Mr. Gary Uttke was best man. Mr. B. Slagboom proposed the toast to his niece at a reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents. Centring the head table, covered with a hand-made cutwork cloth, was a three-tier cake made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. J. Carlous. The new Mrs. Somerville chose a two-piece knitted suit in coral as her going-away ensemble. She wore black accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Representing the groom's family were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Kinnis of Victoria.

Boy, if cooking is this much fun... Enjoying their "time" in the kitchen at St. Louis College are these budding young chefs, Tommy Farley, Johnny Griffin, at top, and Matthew Reed. The 10-year-old students are busy mixing up a batch of candy and savoring the tasting of it, in preparation for the annual bazaar to be held at St. Louis College, 1002 Pandora Avenue, from 2 to 9 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 16. Afternoon tea will be served from 2 to 4 p.m. In addition to the various stalls there will be games and bingo among the attractions. — (Kinsman)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A lovely family moved next door to us last March. Their youngest is a girl whom I will call Jody. She is 12 years old, but has the mentality of a five-year-old.

Our eight-year-old daughter (I will call her Margaret) gets along fairly well with Jody. She understands that her friend is mentally retarded and makes allowances for her. Yesterday Margaret came home in tears. Jody got mad because she couldn't get her doll's clothes on right. She tore the doll apart and bit Margaret on the arm. The skin was not broken but the teeth marks were there.

Jody has had temper tantrums before but she has never actually hurt our daughter. My husband is very upset. Jody's mother is sick at heart over it. She says it is important that Jody play with normal children and she has begged us not to keep our child away. Will you please give us some advice? We cannot be objective.—PERPLEXED

Dear Perplexed: Retarded children present a heart-breaking problem to parents. Those who have normal children should try to understand and help as best they can.

Tell Jody's mother you will co-operate if she will do her part. This means she must promise to supervise the two little girls every moment they are together and separate them at the first sign of trouble.

Dear Ann Landers: Please, help me think of just the right words to tell a perfectly wonderful woman that she is wearing her dresses about four inches too short.

Etta (who is my husband's sister) is 51 years old. Etta used to wear a size 14 but she has put on about 20 pounds in the last 10 years. She doesn't realize that dresses hike up when they fit snug—especially orpandy. The other evening she bent over to shake hands with someone seated on the sofa and everyone could see her garters hooked into the tops of her stockings.

"This woman is really a fine person and I'm sure if she knew how unattractive she looks in short skirts she'd lower her hemlines. Please help me to help her. — DEEGEE

Dear Dee: Since Etta is your husband's sister HE ought to give her the word. If he witnessed the sofa performance it would be a perfect point from which to launch the suggestion.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 15 who is going with a very nice boy. I will call him Alfred. When he met my best friend, Sally, he seemed to take to her right away. The next thing I knew Alfred was asking me to

During the tender scenes in the movies Alfred always has something to say to Sally. He talks to me during the cartoons. I don't mind telling you this makes me plenty mad. Should I pretend not to notice or have it out with him?—EDGED OUT

Dear Edged: Since Alfred seems interested in Sally, tell him you want to knock off the going steady so he can date her. This is obviously what he wants to do so be gracious about it, Lamb Chop. He's as good as gone.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rule, 1897 Foul Bay Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Beverley Jean, to Mr. Peter Donald McKinnon, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. McKinnon, 2860 Beach Drive. The wedding will take place at 2 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 30, in St. Patrick's Church, Oak Bay, with Father A. Leonard officiating.

Spent Honeymoon In Palm Springs

Mr. Douglas Bennett and his bride, the former Marlene M. Christie, motored to Palm Springs following their recent marriage in First United Church. The newlyweds are now making their home in Gardena, Calif.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Christie, 635 Admirals Road, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bennett, Gardena.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiated at the late afternoon wedding. Mrs. J. Gregory, organist, played Ave Maria during the service.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was lovely in a princess style floor-length gown of nylon organza over tulle featuring a cathedral train. A nylon organza headpiece held her shoulder-length veil in place and she carried a cascade of pink roses and feathered carnations.

Mrs. D. Berrow, matron of honor, and the Misses Frances Boston and Marjorie Jackson wore bell-skirted gowns in peacock blue peau de sole with white lace jackets. They wore matching headdresses and carried feathered gold chrysanthemums and wheat sprays.

Mr. Lyle Christie, bride's brother, was best man. Usher were Mr. Gene Weber and Mr. Robert Salmond.

A reception dinner followed at Holyrood House.

For travelling the bride chose a two-piece, blue wool suit with pink collar. Her accessories were beige and black and she wore a white orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett motored from California for their son's wedding. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. N. Christie, Mr. Ron Christie and Miss Frances Boston, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Christie, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Taylor, Mrs. L. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. R. # Plan for Christmas

By M. V. CHESNUT

It is probably tempting fate to even think about Christmas, let alone write about it, while we are still paying off our summer holiday bills. Yet, if we are to have some bulb flowers actually in bloom in time for the Christmas season, we'd better get cracking.

I must make it clear that you can't buy just any old kind of bulbs and expect them to bloom in time for Christmas. For most of our common kinds won't allow themselves to be rushed to that extent. About the surest bet is the so-called Roman hyacinth — actually imported from France — which is nothing like the fat, opulent Dutch hyacinth but with a certain grace and daintiness in its widely-spaced, loosely hung white bells. It has the true hyacinth fragrance although not as strong, and is much earlier and easier to grow than the regular kinds. Prices are around 35 cents per bulb.

The Cynthea or miniature hyacinths are similar in form although not quite so early to bloom, and are available in quite a wide range of colors; the Roman hyacinths come only in white.

These miniatures — known also as Dutch Roman hyacinths — are not as small as the name would imply; they make surprisingly large spikes of bloom although the bulbs themselves are quite small. Their special virtues are their early blooming habit and their low cost — about 20 cents each as against 40 cents for a top grade Dutch hyacinth bulb. They come in light and dark pink, light and dark blue, white, red and yellow.

The true Dutch hyacinths are supreme as potted plants and their sweet fragrance can perfume a whole room, but these need a long period of storage in cold darkness after potting and are considerably later in coming into bloom. If the Christmas deadline is not important, I would like to suggest Carnegie and Innocence as very fine white varieties, while Ostara is a grand clear blue. Some good pinks are Pink Pearl, fairly deep in shade; Princess Margaret, flesh pink and Princess Irene, silvery pink. La Victoire and Tubergen's Scarlet are good red varieties. City of Haarlem is a pale yellow, while Orange Boven — listed as Salmonetta in some catalogues — is a unique orange-salmon shade. All of these run around 35 cents to 45 cents per bulb.

The earliest narcissi for indoor forcing are the sweetly scented Paper White and its golden cousin, Grand Soleil d'Or, and the traditional way of growing these is in ornamental bowls filled with clean washed pebbles and water — more about this later. Both can be brought into bloom in time for Christmas, and need no period of cold, dark storage at all. Paper

White bulbs run around 15 cents each and Grand Soleil d'Or about 25 cents.

To the best of my knowledge, there are no tulips which can be forced into bloom in time for Christmas — at least, not under ordinary household conditions. In years past, my favorite tulip for indoor growing was the tiny Duc Van Thol variety, standing only eight inches tall and beautifully proportioned. These seem to be off the market now, but any of the varieties in the Single Early class will make good potted plants, not too tall and floppy, and reasonably priced at about 15 cents per bulb.

I have had no luck at all growing any of the "wild" or species tulips indoors although they grow like weeds in the garden, and I do wish I could discover the secret of indoor culture, for these are by far the earliest of all tulips. This year I am trying my hand at growing one called Red Riding Hood, an eight-inch dwarf with scarlet flowers and attractively mottled foliage.

The little bulbs — crocus, scilla, snowdrop, grape hyacinth — CAN be grown in pots and bowls, but they don't take kindly to indoor life and they detest forcing; the yellow crocus is particularly stubborn. Actually, with these, I think it is better to grow them outdoors until bloom starts, then dig up a clump and sit it in a bowl of moss for indoor decoration.

Wit and Wisdom Collected in New Book

Philip Lightens Protocol

LONDON (UPI)—Opening an exhibition devoted to man-made fibres Prince Philip pointed ruefully to his thinning blonde hair and remarked:

"I'm not very good at man-made fibres myself."

The Duke of Edinburgh often quips away some of the leader protocol that surrounds royalty on its routine rounds.

Now writer Peter Butler has collected these light-hearted comments and publishes them Monday as The Wit of Prince Philip, a tribute, he says, to a man who "with wit and wisdom, charm and purpose has attempted to do a difficult and invaluable job superlatively well."

Here are a few of his remarks that have not been quoted recently:

Prince Philip, visiting laundry exhibition: "And which is the shrinking machine?"

The royal family is supposed to avoid controversy but Prince

Philip has blithely trodden in such sensitive areas as racialism, juvenile delinquency, Anglo-American relations, east-west relations, the export drive, the monarchy and the constitution.

Or who refers to the degrees heaped upon him by universities (as he accepted a doctorate of honor from Reading University) with:

"It must be pretty generally known that I never earned an honest degree in my life."

Or who tells authorities in Singapore in the days when it was seeking independence:

"I have very little personal experience of self-government. I am one of the most governed people you could hope to meet."

Not all his sallies are belly-laughs and some of them — he was once a sailor, remember — are hardly family reading but for a man drafted into public life he has a very high average. And Buckingham Palace insists he writes all of them himself.

Asked if the whaling shots in a documentary film he took might be too gory for children: "Certainly not. If my children are any guide there is nothing they like better than a little blood."

To a gathering of industrialists: "It's no good for man to seek escape in lunatics and rocketry and leave his soul morally earthbound among the television sets and expresso bars."

At the dedication of a research institute: "Ladies and gentlemen, it gives me the greatest pleasure to declare this laboratory open — and if someone will lend me a key I will unlock it."

Commenting on English as the language of the Commonwealth: "I include pidgin English in this, even though I am referred to in that spiendid language as "fella belong Mrs. Queen."

To a man who explained his wife was a doctor of philosophy and "much more important than I": "Ah, yes. We have that trouble in our family, too."

On being warned to beware of drips in a cave in Australia: "I've run into plenty of those in my life."

The president of the Royal College of Surgeons, presenting a silver replica of an old-fashioned bleeding cup: "May it please your Royal Highness to accept this bleeding cup."

Philip: "Well, I can only say it's bloody kind of you."

Philip, who once described a gathering at the official residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, as "a surplus of bishops," appealed to a photographer in Chile to stop following him around with the words:

"We have one in the family already."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Man Appeal New Aim

LONDON (NANA)—The Wrong Box, said director-writer Bryan Forbes, "is not a comedy of death. It's the death of comedy. We're trying to give comedy 'man' appeal. We feel that Michael Caine, Peter Cook and Dudley Moore have 'man' appeal." The story is based on a little-known novel of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Michael Caine popped into the caravan at Balustrade Park near London where he was lunching with Forbes, to tell me, "I play a shy medical student who is in love with the girl next door." The girl next door is Nanette Newman, Mrs. Bryan Forbes in private life, and she came in with Michael wearing 19th-century garb. Nanette was the young mother in her husband's film masterpiece, Seance On A Wet Afternoon. They recently had another baby daughter.

The Forbes have been married eight years. "I met him when I was 16, married him at 19. I think marriages have a better chance when the girl is young. She is more malleable."

The scene I watched was a cemetery. Forbes was shooting at an open graveyard. A Victorian hearse complete with plumes dashed by at a racing pace. The horses were frisky, and the coffin, presumably containing the body of John Mills, almost fell out. John joined in the laughter — as much as he could with his make-up. He plays a man of 80 who is trying to murder Sir Ralph Rikhardson, who plays a man of 72.

I told John I had recently seen daughter Hayley in Hollywood where she is starring with Rosalind Russell in Mother Superior.

"She is very homesick," he told me, surprisingly because when I saw Hayley, she was enjoying Hollywood and was planning to stay there for a couple of months after the picture is finished. "She's a very family sort of girl," said her father. Her mother, Mary Hayley Bell, will be going over in a week to be with the 19-year-old star.

"After the picture, they are going to Mexico briefly to visit a school friend of Hayley's, then to Singapore to stay with Mary's brother. Then they come back to England."

James Booth, who starred on stage here in Things Ain't What They Used To Be, music by Lionel Bart, will be toiling for Bart again on stage in Twang, playing the man who robbed the rich to give to the poor, and I do mean Robin Hood. Booth is a fine actor and I hope he will go to Broadway one day in the new show which is titled, Twang, on account of all those bows and arrows.

You would think that Buster Keaton was a new star for the attention he gets in the European press. The 68-year-old deadpan of the silents is playing a role in Something Funny Happened On the Way to the Forum. Actually he is the only one of the real oldtimers who has never stopped working.

The new star of The Avengers, Diana Rigg, will eschew black-leather jackets and pants as worn by her predecessor, Honor Blackman. She will be all bldins and soft stretch pants. To prove that a woman can be tough but feminine — a la those murderous ladies in the James Bond pictures. It would amuse the late Ian Fleming to know that he has created a new woman.

According to the 20th Century-Fox people here, the blow George Scott is reported to have landed on the noggin of director Willie Wyler, never in fact landed. "They never met. Mr. Scott merely didn't report for work, and rather than have problems, it was decided, as he had not yet started, to get Ell Wallach." Well, I will be in Paris soon, and I will do some digging. Not that this is the most world-shaking event in history, but it is interesting from a psychological point of view. Why would an actor want to hop a director?

Going to Extremes

SYDNEY HARRIS

A writer isn't often pleased when another writer takes the words right out of his mouth, but in this case I'm delighted that so distinguished a critic as Joseph Wood Krutch beat me to the punch on a topic I was just getting around to.

In a reprint of one of his earlier books of essays, he remarks: "From experience I have learned that you can't criticize anything without having it supposed that you favor some opposite extreme."

"If you say, for example, that automobiles should not be built to run 90 miles an hour, you are asked normally if you want to go back to the horse and buggy — as though nothing between 90 miles an hour and eight miles an hour were possible."

To take an older example, in the past is some "radical" opposed the 12-hour working day. "It was assumed that he was advocating a life of almost uninterrupted leisure for labor."

And today, Krutch adds, "if you confess the suspicion that a certain specific demand of a single union is unreasonable, then you are accused of wanting to hand the managed working man over to exploiters."

It is curious how everybody preaches moderation, but hardly anyone believes in it, except as an abstraction. We seem to be continually compelled to make choices between extremes, neither of which is wholly desirable.

If I write a column against "strict" training of children, I receive dozens of letters wrathfully asking whether I believe children should be allowed to run wild.

And if I write a column against too much "permissive" parenthood, I receive as many equally wrathful letters demanding to know if I think it is right to "shrink the child's spirit" or "cripple his self-expression."

When I commented, some months ago, that I did not have many electrical gadgets in my home, because I do not want to become enslaved by an utter dependence on servismen and such, many readers suggested that I go to a log cabin and use oil lamps. This was their idea of irony.

But these are never exclusive alternatives, as Krutch sensibly points out. Some gadgets are desirable, and some are more trouble than they are worth: the horse and buggy is too slow for modern travel, but perhaps the 300-horsepower auto is too fast. Must we perpetually oscillate between the extremes of yesterday and tomorrow? And does rejection of one extreme imply

Awards Given

Appeal Sum Mounts —$130,000

Led by employees of the T. Eaton Company and Victoria Press Limited, each with award-winning contributions to the United Appeal, this week's campaign total moved close to the $130,000 mark.

The appeal total stood at $129,345 at 5 p.m., Friday, 29.4 per cent of this year's objective of $139,210.

U.S. Offers To Guide Cuban Exodus

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. state department warned Friday against "hasty, disorganized and dangerous" attempts to bring Cuban refugees to the United States in small boats.

The department said the U.S. government was ready to provide "regular, reliable and safe transportation of the refugees at no cost to them or their relatives."

In a statement read to newsmen by press officer Marshall Wright, the department sternly reminded Americans and Cubans in this country of the stiff penalties facing anyone bringing in an "undocumented" refugee who has not been processed through official channels.

SHOULD BE ORDERLY

The movement of Cuban refugees to the United States, which Premier Fidel Castro has said he will permit, "should be orderly and consistent with our laws," the department said.

The department's statement was sparked by the arrival Thursday in the Florida keys of a small boat which had gone to Cuba and returned with 15 refugees who said the Castro regime had facilitated their departure.

Employees of Manufacturers Life Insurance Company have become the third group to win an Award of Excellence this year with 100 per cent participation by its 12 employees for a total of $373.

Eaton's employees donated a total of $6,300, up from $5,500 last year. Victoria Press employees gave $3,800, up from $3,400 last year, with returns still coming in. United Appeal plaques for outstanding citizenship will be awarded employees of each firm again this year.

MAJOR WINNERS

Other major award winners the past week were Macdonald's Consolidated Limited, whose employees gave $848, and Palm Dairies Limited, $698. Both groups have won the plaque award, the former for the seventh consecutive year, the latter for the fourth time.

Plaque awards will also go to employees of the following firms, with the number of times the award has been won shown in brackets: A. E. Ames and Company Ltd. (1); Pioneer Fruit and Vegetable Company Ltd. (3); Weston Bakeries Ltd. (6).

CITATIONS

Citations have been awarded to: Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada (7); The Great West Life Assurance Company (4); Canadian Mental Health Association (4); Osborn & Flury (2); Boy Scouts of Canada, Greater Victoria Region (2); Camosun Electric Company Ltd. (2).

Employees of the Glenagarry Private Hospital Ltd. earned an achievement award for almost doubling their contribution to the appeal this year.

MADE PLASTIC FOR GAME

Celluloid, the first plastic, was invented in 1869 by John Wesley Hyatt, an American printer, as a cheap substitute for ivory billiard balls.

Breaking Point Near —Smith

From Reuters-AP

LONDON (CP) — Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith hinted Friday night he would carry out his threat to seize independence from Britain following the collapse of independence talks here.

In a television interview after the talks ended only in "agreement to disagree," Smith was asked if his all-white government's next step would be a unilateral declaration of independence. He replied:

"This is the most logical step before us, we believe, if we are to retain the Rhodesia we know today, and the western civilization we have established."

JAKARTA (AP) — Young demonstrators burned the headquarters of the Indonesian Communist party Friday and demanded its dissolution. The army blames the party for a leftist uprising last week.

President Sukarno's efforts to protect the Communists and his declaration that "we should not take revenge" went unheeded in the rampage by several thousand youths, largely Moslem.

"Long live America!" they cried in a motor parade past the U.S. embassy, the scene in recent months of denunciation of things American by Communist-led Indonesian mobs.

The demonstrators shouted for the death of the Communist party's first secretary, D. N. Aidit, who has two key aides—Mohammed Lukman and a labor leader named Njoto—in Sukarno's inner cabinet.

350,000 Cubans 'Want Exile'

Hail of Castro Gunfire Sends 37 Off to U.S.

MIAMI (UPI) — Thirty-seven Cubans wary of Fidel Castro's new "Open Door" policy fled the island on their own Friday under a hail of gunfire.

One man was shot in the leg. U.S. officials speculated the Cuban militiamen opened fire through a misunderstanding, since the Castro regime has been bragging about aiding defectors, not shooting at them. The new boatload of refugees landed on Cay Sal in the Florida Straits while the U.S. government was urging the excited South Florida exile colony not to try a Dunkirk-like operation to rescue loved ones from Cuba. Estimates indicate as many as 350,000 Cubans may want out.

They set sail Friday night, and were spotted by militiamen on the beach, who opened fire with automatic weapons. The boat continued without returning the fire, and arrived early today at the island of Cay Sal.

An unconfirmed report from a Cuban government radio said eight other small boats were preparing to start for Florida with more refugees.

Each new development heightened the excitement in South Florida's exile colony of 90,000 persons.

Telephone and telegraph offices were swamped with persons trying to get through to Havana and other Cuban cities to co-ordinate plans with relatives.

Castro announced Sept. 28 that he would free any Cuban malcontents.

This set exiles scurrying to find any sort of vessel capable of making the 90 mile trip from Cuba to the Florida Keys—an operation reminiscent of the historic World War II Dunkirk evacuation when the British used a rag-tag fleet of 900 small vessels to rescue 338,000 troops from the beaches of Nazi occupied France.

The state department issued a strong warning today against "hasty, disorganized and dangerous" attempts to transport refugees across the treacherous Florida Straits.

It said the U.S. government is ready to provide "regular, reliable and safe transportation of the refugees at no cost to them or their relatives."

Exiles reported that Castro's dreaded secret police are telephoning Cubans in Miami directly from Havana, checking on their relationship to refugees awaiting permission to depart.

Liberal Peek Offer 'Transparent Plot'

By RON COLLISTER

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

SELKIRK, Man. — Tory chief John Diefenbaker has accused the government of a transparent plot to seal his lips by inviting him to look into the files of the Seftind brothers, the bankruptcy kingpins.

In the province where the Diefenbaker magic has never dimmed, he set out these terms for accepting Justice Minister Cardin's invitation to peek at the Seftind files:

He must be allowed to examine all the files, particularly information given to Ottawa by the Quebec department of justice.

He must be allowed to speak out on anything he saw in the files.

HAPPY TO LOOK

If these terms were met, Mr. Diefenbaker said, he would be happy to look at the documents when he is in Ottawa in a few weeks time.

Crime Conference

Murder-Arson Chief Topics

OTTAWA (UPI) — The fraudulent bankruptcy and arson racket that has resulted in at least 12 murders in Quebec will be a main topic at the Federal-Provincial Conference on crime here next December.

Justice Minister Cardin said Friday he will meet Dec. 23 with the attorneys-general of the 10 provinces to try and find means of battling organized crime in Canada and preventing the infiltration of international criminals from the United States.

'Nothing to Hide' Protests Cardin

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Federal Government is willing to open to the public only part of its file on the Seftind bankruptcy, Justice Minister Cardin said Friday.

"But we have nothing to hide," said Mr. Cardin as he commented to UPI on reports that Prime Minister Pearson is willing to make public reports on the Seftind case that include involvement of two cabinet ministers and their furniture purchases.

However, there are departmental documents and files which should not and would not be disclosed to the general public, Mr. Cardin said in an interview.

Mr. Cardin repeated his challenge to opposition leader John Diefenbaker to look at his files himself or designate a former justice minister to handle the chore. He would be given complete access to all information including departmental files, said Mr. Cardin. And he wouldn't find the names of any members of parliament "except the ones we already know of."

Secretary of State Maurice Lamontagne and Postmaster General Rene Tremblay are listed in the files in connection with their long-term credit purchases of furniture from the bankrupt Seftind company. Both cabinet ministers denied any wrongdoing in their furniture purchases.

DUNCAN—This city will soon have home mail delivery, according to an announcement in Ottawa by Prime Minister Pearson. Duncan is one of 24 towns slated for service soon.

Survey Delays Decision

LADYSMITH — Council will have to wait for a decision on whether it can acquire valuable land near Transfer Beach for park development.

The town wants to get land from CPR and Canadian Collieries, and negotiations with CPR are underway.

But council learned at its Friday meeting Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. is carrying out a survey of all its lands.

Before the company will consider selling any land, it must wait for results of the survey. The council meeting was attended only by Mayor Kathleen Grouhel and two aldermen.

Air cadets asked for permission to sponsor roller-skating for the public on Sundays at Agricultural Hall to raise funds.

Mayor Grouhel had no objection, but Ald. John Cochrane said "I am opposed to this. It should be held on Saturdays."

Ald. Bernard Churchill told the meeting the Union of B.C. Municipalities has asked the provincial government to allow Sunday sport.

He said "these boys (air cadets) are doing a good job." The matter will be decided at the next meeting.

Mayor Grouhel urged aldermen to become acquainted with details of the school building referendum which will soon go to the voters in Ladysmith school district.

She said, "As community leaders we should know every detail of the referendum." The cost is more than $1,300,000.

"It is to our advantage to know all about it," the mayor said.

Independent Institution May Be Out

Courtenay Will Vie For Branch College

COURTENAY—Plans for an independent regional college located here appear to have been dashed by the Marsh Report, but school officials hope a proposed branch college can be put on a local site.

Dr. Leonard Marsh, research director in the UBC school of social work, recommended a main regional college campus in the south central portion of the Island, with a branch in the north.

"I know what we would like, and this may be a bitter pill to swallow," said Courtenay board chairman Brian Walker, "but I don't think there is any alternative."

Courtenay school board recently purchased more than 80 acres of land just north of Courtenay.

Part of the land will be used for a senior high school with vocational shops as the first phase of development.

Some members of the board felt a portion of the site would make a good regional college campus.

But Mr. Walker said "I do believe Dr. Marsh has come up with the only solution."

Serve Large Area

He said "we must have faith in Dr. Marsh and go along with his findings."

The regional college suggested by the UBC official would serve the area from Cowichan to Alert Bay with its main and branch college.

He said campuses would share faculty and library services.

Lew Davies, president of the Nanaimo and District Teachers' Association, claims the logical place for the college is Nanaimo.

Mr. Davies, a high school staff member, said he was giving his personal opinion and could not speak on behalf of the association, but it would be unrealistic to try to put the main campus in a central point and expect everyone to commute.

When a regional college was first suggested almost a year ago Parksville offered to provide land as a college site.

Parksville would be too far from both Duncan and the Courtenay-Campbell River area for students to commute.

Mr. Davies said, but if the college was in Nanaimo, it would be within travelling distance of the Cowichan Valley.

"In 10 years time, another college will be needed, and it could be established at Courtenay. If a branch campus is established it would have to be of the association, but it would be unrealistic to try to

Staffing, Financing

Dr. March recommended the college be in operation for the 1967-68 school term.

This was the report's first phase. The second phase, expected in January, will give specific locations.

The second part will also recommend courses to be offered, staffing, and financing.

The report says the need is urgent enough to get the college into operation by 1967.

Dr. March said evening and part-time students should be an integral rather than extra or emergency part of the college's plans, and these should be developed in the expectations of evening enrollment at least equal to the minimum day-time capacity.

The college cannot be a reality in less than two years according to the doctor, and the public would have to be consulted first by both plebiscite and referendum.

He said it would be desirable for the principal, curriculum director, librarian and chief counsellor to be appointed and work together a year before the college opens.

North Cowichan Hopeful Of Approval for Arena

By JEAN BAIN

NORTH COWICHAN — This district is waiting hopefully for word from the national Centennial committee on its ambitious proposal for a $300,000 ice arena as a 1967 project.

The site is at Fuller's Lake, near Chemainus. The arena will be 32,000 square feet in size with a seating capacity of 1,000.

START IN MARCH

The architects say North Cowichan will not be ready to start the project until next March. Construction costs are expected to remain stationary until then, keeping the cost to $300,000. Architects also recommended North Cowichan consider installing space heating for the comfort of spectators.

It is expected this extra would increase box-office receipts.

Dennis Hogan, chairman of North Cowichan recreation commission, indicated officials will not be idle as they wait for approval of the project.

"We will have to promote the arena for the next few months," he said recently. "We must sell this project to the people, then fix an appropriate date for a referendum, probably in the new year."

But the referendum may contain much more than just the arena.

North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton said a composite referendum is preferable to a money bylaw on the arena.

"The referendum would cover a five-year period for regional development in North Cowichan," he said.

"There are many fields of development in the district, including a swimming pool, which could be included in the one referendum."

The reeve said cost would be covered by a one-mill increase. Most of the arena cost will be borne by local taxpayers. Centennial grants for a project is $30,000 for this municipality.

Jaycees Map Duncan Centennial

DUNCAN — Junior Chamber of Commerce here is heading the 1967 Centennial celebrations committee.

Jaycee president David Elise said the junior chamber is recommending the celebration be confined to 1967, preferably to coincide with the dedication of the city's centennial project.

He stated members feel the $1,500 available for the celebration was not enough to spread over the B.C. Centennial in 1966 and the Canadian Centennial in 1967.

He said "we recommend the city hold a bigger celebration in 1967 rather than small celebrations over the two-year period."

Duncan centennial committee chairman Jim Whitmore, reported on a recent survey conducted to obtain opinions from the public on the type of centennial project wanted.

The committee has not made its final decision. The city can request up to $12,000 in grants from the two governments.

Mr. Whitmore said out of 33 written opinions received, the breakdown was as follows: a recreation centre for skating and swimming, 13; development of Centennial Heights Park, 6; development of Pioneer Park and Exhibition Grounds, 4; and street beautification, 2.

Other single recommendations were: An auditorium, a kindergarten for underprivileged children, a park on Mount Prevost, and additional parking facilities on Canada Avenue.

City Clerk Gordon Berry also suggested the possibility of developing Wharmcliffe Road Park to include a bowling green, horseshoe pitch and other facilities.

Mr. Whitmore said the committee should also consider a suggestion from the Duncan Cowichan Chamber of Commerce that the city's centennial project include further development of the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum.

The committee agreed the general opinion of the public leaned towards recreation and park development.

The motion was tabled pending a reply from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation who have been asked to submit a plan for the development of a park at Centennial Heights.

Tahsis Progress Firm by 1966 Says Alberni MLA

PORT ALBERNI — By the middle of 1966, Tahsis will be a flourishing town with at least 2,000 people, says John Squire, NDP MLA for Alberni.

And he is perplexed and disappointed that the recent announcement by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, concerning granting of a tree farm licence to the Tahsis Company, "made not a single mention of the social needs of such a community."

He said, "If the minister is going to grant such a licence and make possible the vast expansion of the town, social as well as economic needs must be studied."

ACCESS ROADS

"In a brief presented at the meeting, I pointed out how vital are the needs for access roads, an open townsite as opposed to the present company town set-up, suitable electrical service, and firm plans for an adequate hospital," he said.

These needs have also been pressed by the workers at Tahsis, both by letter and in briefs, Mr. Squire commented.

SOCIAL IMPLICATION

"We have been waiting ever since Mr. Williston's decision to grant the Tahsis Company a tree farm licence on Sept. 29, for word on the social implications of this move, but not a word have we heard," the Alberni member said.

"I believe before any tree farm licence was granted decisions should have been made on such things. Tahsis is a strategic area. But access roads and other facilities are desperately required. Social as well as economic progress is required here."

Tahsis Company, Mr. Squire said, made a commitment in their brief for a road to Zeballos within a three-year period.

"That's fairly reasonable," he said, "since they've already been waiting 25 years for the government to put a road in there."

"Fourteen houses are currently being hauled in for the company from Gold River."

I feel that two thousand people by the middle of '66 is a very modest estimate.

But he said: "At present, use of electricity in Tahsis is restricted."

DISPUTES LICENCE

"I believe the tree farm licence to Tahsis Company should only have been granted in conjunction with various other provincial departments."

Sawmills, fishing camps, Zeballos, Gold River, Tahsis, all are presently dependent on the Shantymen's Hospital at Esperanza.

"That hospital is a godsend in the area," said Mr. Squire. "But it was never designed to handle a community of the size Tahsis is getting to be. Facilities are lacking for so many people."

Yet, says Mr. Squire, Mr. Williston has persistently ignored all pleas to look into these aspects of expanding economy in Tahsis and surrounding area.

Mr. Squire said holders of tree farm licences must offer at least 30 per cent of their work to small loggers.

But, he says, the licence holder has only to offer. If the price he wants to pay the small contractor is not satisfactory, the big company has still fulfilled its obligation by offering.

Police and provincial fire marshals are probing a $1,000,000 "burn-for-profit" racket in B.C., it was disclosed here Friday.

The investigation, in at least one case, extends to another province, but officials here would not name the province. They did indicate it wasn't Quebec.

After Blow

Island's Fate Unknown

AGANA (AP) — The fate of 200 residents on the Island of Agafan in the South Pacific was unknown Friday in the wake of typhoon Carmen.

The U.S. 79th Air Rescue Squadron from Andersen Air Force Base on Guam reported that Agafan's buildings were destroyed and that few persons could be seen from the air. The island is in the northern Mariana.

The squadron dropped food and water and planned to parachute in a medical team Saturday to conduct a ground search for survivors of the 190-mile-an-hour winds.

Crime Conference

Murder-Arson Chief Topics

OTTAWA (UPI) — The fraudulent bankruptcy and arson racket that has resulted in at least 12 murders in Quebec will be a main topic at the Federal-Provincial Conference on crime here next December.

Justice Minister Cardin said Friday he will meet Dec. 2-3 with the attorneys-general of the 10 provinces to try and find means of battling organized crime in Canada and preventing the infiltration of international criminals from the United States.

'Nothing to Hide' Protests Cardin

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Federal Government is willing to open to the public only part of its file on the Seikind bankruptcy, Justice Minister Cardin said Friday.

"But we have nothing to hide," said Mr. Cardin as he commented to UPI on reports that Prime Minister Pearson is willing to make public reports on the Seikind case that include involvement of two cabinet ministers and their furniture purchases.

However, there are departmental documents and files which should not and would not be disclosed to the general public, Mr. Cardin said in an interview.

Mr. Cardin repeated his challenge to opposition leader John Diefenbaker to look at his files himself or designate a former justice minister to handle the chore.

He would be given complete access to all information including departmental files, said Mr. Cardin. And he wouldn't find the names of any members of parliament "except the ones we already know of."

Secretary of State Maurice Lamontagne and Postmaster General Rene Tremblay are listed in the files in connection with their long-term credit purchases of furniture from the bankrupt Seikind company.

Both cabinet ministers denied any wrongdoing in their furniture purchases.

Liberal Peek Offer 'Transparent Plot'

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

SEKIRK, Man.—Tory chief John Diefenbaker has accused the government of a transparent plot to seal his lips by inviting him to look into the files of the Seikind brothers bankruptcy kingpins.

In the province where the Diefenbaker magic has never dimmed, he set out these terms for accepting Justice Minister Cardin's invitation to peek at the Seikind files:

He must be allowed to examine all the files, particularly information given to Ottawa by the Quebec department of justice.

He must be allowed to speak out on anything he saw in the files.

HAPPY TO LOOK

If these terms were met, Mr. Diefenbaker said, he would be happy to look at the documents when he is in Ottawa in a few weeks time.

"But I want the right to see," he declared. "I want none of his monkey business that characterized this government."

Mr. Diefenbaker appeared to be ruling out the government's acceptance of his terms as he pointed out that he is a privy councillor and under oath, is forbidden to discuss what he sees in official documents.

The same would apply to former Tory justice ministers who were also invited to look at the files.

'They Won't Skip Country'

Panicky Crooks Eyed

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Claude Wagner said Friday measures have been taken to prevent the departure from Canada of several panicky leaders of the Montreal underworld, who want to get out of the country in a hurry.

He made the statement at a press conference, called to report on progress by the justice department in investigating the operation of an arson and fraudulent bankruptcy ring.

So far, he said, police have discovered at least seven persons have been murdered on the orders of ringleaders to keep them from testifying.

Four bodies have been discovered and three others are being sought.
